BILLION-DOLLAR LOSS IN VALUE OF SHARES IN HEAVY SALES OF STOCKS

Commodities Also on Skids Again—Officials See No Cause for Alarm in Price Sag, Increase in Jobless.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Stock and commodity prices hit the skids again today, but the drop failed to shake official reassurances that neither the price trend nor an upsurge of unemployment is cause for alarm.

Corn and cotton, leading actors on the market stage, resisted selling and got back part of their losses. The wheat market was described as steady on covering.

On the anniversary of the market break of 1948, stocks fell steeply for the biggest average loss since the selling wave that followed the presidential election.

Share losses ranged up to $3 and many issues sold at the lowest prices of 1948-49. This came on top of Friday's break which brought drops of as much as $5. Metals, rails, oils, industrials and utilities were represented on the losing side.

(The United Press estimated that the loss in share values today amounted to more than one billion dollars.)

New York cotton futures, recovering from earlier lows, closed 95 cents to $1.30 a bale lower. At the bottom they were down as much as $2.80. In New Orleans the lows were as much as $2.50 down but about half the ground was recovered.

At one time all corn, soybeans, rye and lard futures, and July and September wheat in Chicago were at seasonal lows. Every wheat contract except May was under $2. Wheat finally closed with gains up to 1 cent a bushel and corn wound up with various deliveries ranging from five-eighths down to a cent up.

Altogether the dollar was buying more than it did a few months ago.

The Pennsylvania Railroad said it was laying off 2500 of the 45,350 men in its maintenance of equipment department. They will be furloughed for an indefinite period.

The Associated Industries of Massachusetts reported that 26,000 manufacturing wage earners were laid off last month, some for short periods, others for indefinite periods, and an estimated 50,000 workers now are on reduced work schedules.

Altogether, the Census Bureau reported in Washington, there were 2,000,000 more unemployed in January than in December.

Actually, the true drop was only 700,000. Officials said the other 1,300,000 reported as jobless really aren't part of the nation's normal working force—they were probably Christmas employes, students or others who no longer seek jobs.

But the 700,000 have joined enough others who are out of work and want work, to push America's current unemployment total to 2,650,000 — 600,000 more than in January 1948.

Officials saw little to worry about, however:

Secretary of Labor Tobin said the present unemployment level "bears careful watching," but he added that "the situation is not alarming."

Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said neither the census figures nor skidding food prices alarmed him. He said, however, that "these months are very decisive months."

Secretary of Agriculture Brannan said the decline in food prices was only an adjustment and not the beginning of any drastic trend.

The Department of Labor, noting that the increase in jobless has now slackened appreciably, predicted that spring will bring a demand for more workers as construction, farming and other such activities show their seasonal increase.

TWO MEN KILLED IN REFINING BLAST AT WOOD RIVER

Third Suffers Burns When Still Explodes and Hot Crude Oil Overflows Area.

Two employes were killed and a third was burned severely in the explosion of a brick coke still at the Wood River refinery of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana last night.

The dead are Oliver B. Hillhouse, 45, still fireman, of Bethalto, Ill, and Kenneth March, 22-year-old still cleaner, 2718 East Broadway, Alton.

Edward S. Gallagher, 22, a still cleaner, is in St. Joseph's Hospital, Alton, with burns of the hands and legs. Gallagher lives at 543 East Ferguson avenue, Wood River.

The men were working outside the still, in an open space in the refinery property, when the explosion occurred at 6:10 p.m. Hillhouse and March are reported to have been knocked to the ground and were burned by the overflow of hot crude oil. March was dead when other employes reached him. Hillhouse died on the way to a hospital. Gallagher was burned when he is reported to have gone to the assistance of the other men.

Windows in Wood River were rattled by the blast, but damage was confined to the still. Fire, which followed the explosion, was quickly extinguished by plant fire fighters. The loss was described as "not heavy," due to the segregation of the still from refinery buildings.

The cause of the explosion was not immediately learned. Wood River police reported the still was equipped with a safety valve, which they said may have been defective.

Hillhouse is survived by his wife, Evelyn, and one child. March, an Army veteran, is survived by his wife, Virginia, and a child. An inquest will be conducted at Wood River.

GLOOMY WEATHER DUE FOR WEEKEND; MAYBE SOME SNOW

Cloudy skies and somewhat warmer weather tonight and tomorrow, with occasional rain, possibly mixed with snow tonight, was the weather forecast by Meteorologist Harry F. Wahlgren. Low temperature tomorrow would be near freezing and the high in the afternoon about 40, he predicted. Then clearing, colder weather may arrive tomorrow night, he added.

He agreed that tomorrow is not likely to be ideal for outdoor picnics and suggested it would be "a good day to go to church."

Continuing the recent pattern of gloomy days, fog and smoke this morning reduced visibility downtown to a mile. Then the murk lifted slowly. Yesterday's high temperature was 37 degress at 12:01 a.m. The thermometer stayed below freezing most of the day. This morning's low reading was 26 degrees at 5 o'clock.

Bismarck, N. D., was the chilliest place in the country this morning, 21 below zero. The temperature warmed up there yesterday afternoon to 3 below zero.

J. EDWARD GRAGG FILES IN G.O.P. RACE FOR MAYOR; 'UNITY' CANDIDATE

Kaufmann Group Says It Won't Back Him—Nolte Urges Support for Him in Interests of Party Harmony.

J. Edward Gragg, an attorney, filed notice with the Republican City Committee yesterday of his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Mayor at the March 11 primary election. He was the fifth candidate to enter the contest.

Gragg appeared at the office of the city committee shortly before 5 p.m. and paid his $200 filing fee, taking with him his declaration of candidacy, which he filed with the Board of Election Commissioners today.

In a statement issued today, Gragg pledged that, if elected, he would conduct the municipal government "in the best interests of the taxpayers, and all persons chosen to administer the departments of the city will be of integrity and ability."

He filed for the nomination after Comptroller Louis Nolte urged all members of the city committee to support Gragg as a candidate who would "unify the Central Committee." In letters to each of the city committee members, Nolte expressed "increasing concern" because the local Republican party is "embroiled in intra-party strife."

Chairman's Views.

However, George W. Hartman, chairman of the Republican City Committee, expressed grave doubt that [illegible] of five "harmony candidate." Gragg was St. Louis campaign manager last summer for Manvel H. Davis of Kansas City in his unsuccessful campaign for the Republican gubernatorial nomination and the anti-Kaufmann faction of the city committee supported Davis.

"So," said Hartman, leader of the pro-Kaufmann faction of the committee, "Gragg must be the candidate of the anti-Kaufmann faction. It's a cinch he isn't ours."

Charles E. Albanese, president of the Board of Aldermen, who previously filed for the Republican mayoral nomination, is reported to have the support of those ward organizations which are aligned with the faction headed by Hartman. Albanese has been a close political ally of Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann, and has sided with him on numerous occasions in the last two years to outvote Nolte in the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, the city's fiscal authority.

Other candidates in the race for the Republican nomination are Alderman Vernon G. Riehl of the Seventeenth ward; Edward C. Schneider, a lawyer, and Julius J. Noser, president of the American Taxpayers' Association.

Gragg, 46 years old, was unsuccessful Republican nominee for Circuit Attorney in 1936. He is married and lives at 931 Bellerive boulevard.

Hoerr to Run Again.

Alderman John W. Hoerr of the Eleventh Ward, in which Gragg lives, announced today that he would file next week for the Republican nomination to succeed himself and would not seek the mayoral nomination. He had been mentioned as a possible candidate for the nomination for Mayor.

Meanwhile, another candidate entered the contest for the Democratic nomination for mayor, bringing the number of candidates in that race to five. He is George L. Sullivan, a filling station owner and operator.

Sullivan, who paid his $200 filing fee to the Democratic City Committee this morning, said he had no ward organization support but feels he "has a pretty good chance." He lives at 4018 Folsom avenue.

LOVE OF G.I. AND SCOTCH LASS HAS PLENTY TO CONQUER, DOES

Ticket Is Lost, Strike Cancels Sailings, Vessel Runs Aground, but She Gets to U.S.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 5 (AP)—A Scotch lass met a soldier in 1945. Romance ensued.

Last fall he mailed her passage money to Glasgow, but a shipping firm lost her ticket. Then a strike canceled sailings. She boarded the Queen Mary and it ran aground. Persistent—she tried a plane, and made it.

That is how Gavina Brown, 23 years old, became the belated-but-happy war bride of Kenneth Samvelson, 23, of Compton.

Reporter's Divorce Hoax Scheme Backfires; Everybody's in Trouble

CLEVELAND, Feb. 5 (AP)—Five persons, including Editor Louis B. Seltzer of the Cleveland Press, must appear in Common Pleas Court Tuesday on contempt charges evolving from a fake divorce case. Four are newsmen of the Press, the fifth is the wife of one of them.

Reporter Leonard Hammer got an unwanted and uncontested divorce last week for Richard R. Campbell, Press makeup editor, and Campbell's wife, Florence. Then he wrote a story on how he did it, and the press ran it two-columns wide on page 1.

Editorially, the Press commented that the divorce fake was carried out to show up a weakness in divorce court procedure caused by an overcrowded docket. The action was well-intended, the editorial said.

Judge Samuel H. Silbert also cited City Editor Louis Clifford in the contempt charges. Seltzer and Clifford were accused of giving editorial praise to the published divorce story. Hammer was charged with acting as a lawyer, using a notary stamp and preparing a journal card, a step of divorce procedure.

Campbell allegedly helped prepare the journal entry which was placed on Judge Silbert's desk and which the Judge signed although he never had seen the couple or heard their case.

Conviction on the contempt charge could carry a $500 fine and 10 days in jail.

The Campbells, who were being used only as a test case and did not actually want a divorce, attempted to obtain a new marriage license because Judge Silbert refused to vacate the divorce entry. However, another Cleveland judge prevented the remarriage here because the couple was accompanied by a photographer. But the Campbells were remarried yesterday—in Indiana.

STALIN WILLING TO ATTEND A 'BIG FOUR' CONFERENCE, SAYS RED-LICENSED PAPER

BERLIN, Feb. 5 (UP).

THE Soviet-licensed Berlin Zeitung, quoting Moscow correspondents, said today that Prime Minister Joseph Stalin was willing to attend a Big Four conference. The paper said that this showed Stalin was making every effort to secure peace.

(In Moscow, Soviet newspapers devoted four columns of space today to world reaction to Stalin's offer to meet President Truman in Russia, Poland or Czechoslovakia to discuss a no-war pact.

(President Truman said he would not deal with Russia outside the United Nations.)

KANSAS CITY ASKS COURT TO REVERSE PHONE RISE ORDER

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 5—A motion for immediate reversal, or at least suspension, of the Missouri Public Service Commission order granting Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. annual rate increases of $3,228,529, was filed in Cole County Circuit Court today by the City of Kansas City.

It was presented in connection with the filing by Kansas City of a formal appeal to the court from the commission order.

Judge Sam C. Blair fixed the evening of Feb. 15 as time for hearing the motion. He made a writ of review under the appeal returnable Feb. 25. The latter date is 10 days shorter than the legal maximum of 30 days. The evening hour for the motion hearing was arranged to get it before the court at the earliest possible time without disturbing a crowded day docket.

Conference With Council.

The judge acted immediately after a conference with interested counsel. The question of requiring the company to post a bond to assure customers of refunds in event the rate increases should be knocked out in whole or in part was discussed with him but no request for action on this was made. Effect of sustaining the motion would be to halt the increases pending any further action.

Those who conferred with Judge Blair, shortly before noon, were Jerome M. Joffee, special utilities counsel for Kansas City; Associate City Counselor Forrest G. Ferris Jr. of St. Louis, and John P. Randolph, general counsel of the commission. St. Louis and St. Louis county have announced that they would file separate appeals objecting to the increases, and other objecting communities may do likewise.

St. Louis to Participate.

St. Louis will participate in the hearing on the motion, Ferris said. The objectors will endeavor to have the appeal case tried as quickly as possible.

Kansas City argued in its motion for reversal or suspension that there is no means at law as the situation exists now to recover the amount of rate increases paid by customers if the commission order eventually is modified or reversed by final court action.

The rate increases became effective last Tuesday. At the same time the commission overruled motions for rehearing filed by St. Louis, Kansas City, St. Louis county, Kirkwood, University City and Trenton. The commission order was issued Jan. 18, with two members concurring in the findings and order, one commissioner, Miss Agnes Mae Wilson, concurring in the result, and the other two members dissenting.

Last Monday Miss Wilson filed a separate concurring opinion in which she largely, but not altogether, agreed with findings of the other two commissioners who approved granting in full of the increases sought by the company. A particular point was made in the Kansas City appeal to the court that the commission's findings were a "nullity" because a majority had not concurred in them.

DEMOCRATS TELL TAFT HE DEFENDS 'A DEAD HORSE' IN HIS LABOR LAW

'Forgets He No Longer Is Running Senate,' Says Pepper, Denying Ohioan's Prediction Most of Taft Act Will Be Kept.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Democrats today accused Senator Taft (Rep.), Ohio, of defending "a dead horse" in his support of the Taft-Hartley labor law.

They said Taft's predictions that many of the act's provisions will be written into a new law are not true.

Further, Senator Pepper (Dem.), Florida, said at a Senate Labor Committee hearing, "Republicans who follow the leadership of the Senator from Ohio will condemn themselves" to political defeats.

Accusations flew thick and fast at the hearing, with Ludwig Teller, a New York labor relations attorney, the target of heated Democratic questions.

The storm arose after Teller backed the Taft-Hartley law, calling it a "fair, forward step." Conversely, he said the Truman Administration labor bill, on which the committee is holding hearings, is "a long, backward step" in labor-management relations.

Taft Defends Witness.

Taft vigorously defended Teller, accusing Democrats on the committee of "trying to blackguard the witness" through their questions. Teller had identified himself as a Democrat, who disagreed with his party's platform on labor legislation.

Pepper said Taft was "inaccurate and erroneous" in predicting Congress will retain most of the Taft-Hartley provisions.

Pepper observed that perhaps Taft, Republican policy leader, "is forgetting the fact that he no longer is running the Senate." This was a reference to Democratic majorities replacing Republicans in control of Eighty-first Congress.

Pepper reminded Taft that President Truman, Secretary of Labor Tobin and the Democratic platform all pledged repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act, restoration of the Wagner Act and revision of the latter in line with Truman's proposals.

Taft Denies He Said It.

Pepper said Taft forecast at a press conference yesterday that two thirds of the Taft-Hartley law provisions would be retained when Congress finally passes a new labor law.

"I didn't say that," Taft broke in, adding that he said the final result would amount to an amendment of the Taft-Hartley Act.

At his press conference to which Pepper referred, Taft said the law which he helped write in 1947 has about 60 separate provisions. He predicted the new legislation under consideration will pick up 40 or so provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Earlier Senator Elbert Thomas (Dem.), Utah also disputed Taft's prediction.

Thomas is sponsoring a bill sent to Congress by the Truman Administration. He also is chairman of the committee which hopes to complete hearings on the bill by Feb. 10. Testimony is being taken day and night in an effort to make that deadline.

Teller said the Administration bill "completely overlooks" protection of the rights of both the public and management.

He said strikes causing national emergencies do not permit of legislative solution. He favored letting the President deal with individual cases through executive orders.

Teller also called for continuing the closed shop bar of the Taft-Hartley law, along with the provi-

WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH IN THIRD FIRE IN 18 MONTHS

Mrs. Blanche Malvicine, whose flat caught fire three times in the last 18 months, was burned to death today in a small fire, which firemen attributed to smoking in bed.

Neighbors summoned firemen, who found Mrs. Malvicine lying on the floor in her flat, at 2230A Mullanphy street. Her clothing was burning and blankets on a bed near which she was lying were smoldering. Downstairs tenants said they heard Mrs. Malvicine scream and fall to the floor, and then detected smoke.

Mrs. Malvicine was pronounced dead at City Hospital, and the body was taken to the morgue. She was 64 years old and a widow. Damage to the flat was estimated at less than $20.

11TH BABY FOR WOMAN, 29; HUSBAND IS ARMY PRIVATE

Man Enlisted Because He Couldn't Support Family; Wife Gets $260 a Month.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Feb. 5 (AP)—Mrs. Herman D. Burd, 29-year-old wife of an Army private first class, has just had her eleventh baby, and hopes the service will grant an extension of leave to her husband so he "can be with the children."

The youngsters—two of whom are ill with pneumonia—range in age from four days to 13 years.

Burd, who is 32, says he enlisted in the Army December 1947 because he couldn't support the family. He draws $46 a month, and his wife receives a dependent's allowance of $260.

IRAN BARS LEFTIST PARTY AFTER SHOOTING OF SHAH

The Shah, 30 years old, was wounded twice.

His assailant died of the beating he took from royal guards and police, authorities announced. Identified as a photographer for the Moslem newspaper Parcham Islam, he pretended to be taking a picture of the Shah and instead fired five shots as the ruler entered Tehran University to take part in an anniversary celebration.

(The Associated Press said the assailant's name was Fakhr Raiee and that he was a member of the Tudeh party.)

Fourteen Tudeh leaders were arrested and more arrests were expected. Military authorities acting with Cabinet and parliamentary approval outlawed the party, whose name of Tudeh means masses. A proclamation accused

A palace communique said the Shah was recovering satisfactorily from the bullet wounds. One bullet passed through his cheek and upper lip. Another penetrated his back, but the wound was said to be superficial. The other three went through his hat.

ILLINOIS WOMEN LIKE MRS. TRUMAN'S OZARK PUDDING

'Delicious,' One Votes, 'Very Good,' Another's Verdict; the Recipe.

EVANSTON, Ill., Feb. 5 (UP)—Mrs. Harry Truman's recipe for Ozark pudding made a big hit in Evanston yesterday. Thirty-three club and career women gathered solemnly at a hotel to pass judgment on the pudding.

They said they'd heard reports that Mrs. Truman has received complaints from housewives who tried her recipe and didn't like it. The Evanston women tasted the dessert and then cast secret ballots.

"Delicious," one ballot said.

"I came in not expecting to like the pudding, but can happily say that it is very good," another said.

The recipe calls for an egg, sugar, flour, baking powder, salt, chopped nutmeats, chopped raw apple and vanilla, all concocted according to an elaborate formula and baked in the oven.

According to reports, aids of Mrs. Truman met criticism of the pudding by retorting that it is "all right when she makes it."

The Evanston women said they thought it was fine, too. A telegram to the President's wife informed her that "the dessert was unanimously approved with high praises."

ARRESTED 9TH TIME IN TRAFFIC CASES AFTER WILD CHASE

John W. Duba, a mechanic, who has been arrested eight times in two years for traffic violations, was under arrest again today after leading a police scout car on a wild one-hour chase at speeds that reached 90 miles an hour.

Twelve shots were fired at the speeding car by Patrolman Milton Zulauf, who emptied all the cartridges in his revolver and also all those in the revolver of his partner, Patrolman James Krause, who was driving the police car. One of the shots apparently ricochested and went through a window frame at the home of Arthur Becker, 2238 Shenandoah avenue, lodging in the wall of the living room.

The officers started after Duba's machine when they saw it going about 50 miles an hour through the intersection of Jefferson and Gravois avenues. They caught it at a red traffic signal at Jefferson and Russell boulevard and, as they pulled beside it, the driver turned off his headlights and sped through the red signal, turning east on Russell.

At McRee and Talmadge avenues, the speeding machine eluded the oficers. The owner was traced through his license plate and Duba was arrested at his home at 3519A Tennessee avenue. With him on the wild ride was a man who said he was William McHughes, a shoe worker, of 4222 Iowa avenue. Duba was booked suspected of violating 20 traffic regulations.

Plans to Star Margaret Truman In $3,000,000 Movie Reported

BOSTON, Feb. 5 (UP)—The Boston Post, in a copyrighted dispatch from Hollywood, said yesterday producer Joseph Pasternak had told Post reporter Grace Davidson that he was planning to star Margaret Truman in a $3,000,000 musical motion picture with a Cinderella theme.

The reporter quoted Pasternak as saying:

"I intend to bring her to the screen in a musical picture worthy of a young artist who is the daughter of the President of the United States. . . . I want to find the perfect musical play for Miss Truman.

"It must be a picture of permanent worth. I would like to see her playing a waitress who works her way up to becoming a great opera star. That is the democratic tradition and particularly fitting for the President's daughter."

Pasternak was quoted as saying the problem of directing the President's daughter would be "delicate," but that Miss Truman would have to "take complete direction from us." In the first place, Pasternak was quoted as saying, "for the movies she would be too fat—you have to be really thin for the movies."

A spokesman for Pasternak's studio in Hollywood said there had been "no discussion" of putting Miss Truman into a movie.

VERDICT TUESDAY IN TREASON CASE; DEFENSE CALLS FOR LENIENCY

Mindszenty Says 'May Lord Give Wisdom to Court When They Pass Sentence' — Regrets Conflict With Laws.

By ENTRE MARTON

BUDAPEST, Feb. 5 (AP)—Cardinal Josef Mindszenty, facing a possible death sentence, asked tonight that the love of his church be extended to the state which is trying him for treason.

In his final plea, the Cardinal said: "May the Lord give wisdom to the court when they pass their sentence, which may help a settlement at home and abroad."

Final summations were made for the Cardinal and his six co-defendants. Presiding Judge Vilmos Olthys then adjourned the trial until Tuesday, when the verdicts will be announced.

The prosecutor of Communist-dominated Hungary demanded a "hard" sentence—meaning death by hanging—for all the defendants. The defense attorneys asked for leniency but not for acquittal.

Kalman Kicko, attorney for the Roman Catholic primate, reminded the five-man People's Court that its decision would be discussed for the next century.

Expresses Regret.

In his final 15-minute plea, the cardinal expressed regret that he had come in conflict with the laws of Hungary, and said: "While remaining faithful to basic principles, I would do certain things differently in the same situation today." He added:

"I state that according to my belief I am not and I have never been the enemy of the Hungarian people.

"I have no controversies with the workers and with the peasants to whom I and my family belong."

Another defendant, Prof. Justin Baranyay, disputed the prosecutor's statement that he had been in touch with the United States Legation here. He said he did not know the American Minister personally.

Prosecutor's Demand.

In summing up for the prosecution before Cardinal Mindszenty made his final plea, Prosecutor Gyula Elapi said the Hungarian people demanded the removal of the cardinal as one of "the last remnants of reaction."

Cardinal Mindszensky's attorney, Kicko, made a weak and apologetic statement in opening the defense.

He praised the peoples' democracies (eastern Europe's Communist governments) and agreed with the prosecutor that his client's activities had "harmed the country immensely." He also commented that many untrue stories had been printed abroad.

Kicko dwelt at considerable length on the Cardinal's statements in court that he deeply regretted his actions. The prosecutor, in his statement, ridiculed these "regrets."

Hungarian prosecutors never ask for life or death sentences. But when a prosecutor asks for a "hard" sentence it means the most severe possible—death by hanging.

Prosecutor's Demand.

The prosecutor demanded that the verdict be "hard and inexorable, labeling tyranny and exploiting." He added that "the verdict should stigmatize the traitors."

The cardinal's attorney asked for a "wise and lenient decision" by the five-man People's Court, which will decide both the question of guilt or innocence and the penalty.

"My task was difficult, but I did the best I could for the defendant," said the defense lawyer. "I remind you that all of you in this courtroom will likely be mentioned in world history and your deeds will be judged through the next century."

In the early part of his summation, the prosecutor had pointed out that the case was attracting the most intense interest throughout the world, and struck back at "false rumors" that the cardinal has been drugged, tortured or threatened to extort confessions.

Assails Foreign Press.

Asserting that the foreign press was trying to "compromise the peoples' democracies," he demanded, "Who dares say that threatened or tortured people are sitting here in the dock?"

He said he had no doubt whatsoever that those who were present would state that the proceedings were conducted according to the regulations of every civilized country.

"It is not Josef Mindszenty, head of Hungary's Roman Catholic Church, who is indicted, but it is Josef Mindszenty, Hungarian citizen, who committed great crimes, who is responsible, whether he wears the purple of cardinal or is clad in rags," the prosecutor declared.

Elapi's fiery attack was directed

CITY ENGINEERS TO BEGIN GRADE CROSSING SURVEYS

Plans Prepared for 11 Separations on Missouri Pacific—Wabash Projects Studied.

Engineers for the city will begin Monday to survey the railroad grade crossings in the city and to prepare plans for grade separations, President Milton M. Kinsey of the Board of Public Service said today.

The survey and the preparation of plans to eliminate grade crossings was ordered by Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann, who said the crossings constitute a hazard to life and an impediment to traffic.

Meanwhile, Kinsey revealed that preliminary plans had been developed by engineers in his department for the elimination of 11 grade crossings on the Missouri Pacific lines within the city and that preliminary studies had been undertaken looking to eliminating four crossings along the Wabash tracks.

Plans are complete for the proposed separation of grades of the Missouri Pacific tracks and South Broadway at Tesson street, he said, and the plans had been approved by the railroad, the city and the United States Public Roads Administration. A federal grant of $687,000 has been sought but has not been obtained because there have been no congressional appropriations for the purposes, he said.

The city, the state and the railroad are in agreement on plans for a proposed grade separation at Third and Poplar streets and have sought a federal grant of $718,000 for the purpose. This, too, is held up because there are no funds available, he said.

The city and the railroad are also in "substantial agreement" on plans for an underpass at the Missouri Pacific tracks and Fyler avenue and for the elimination of two crossings at McCausland avenue and Southwest avenue, he added.

Preliminary studies have been completed for crossing eliminations on the Oak Hill branch of the Missouri Pacific at Koeln street, Wilmington avenue, Bates street, Delor street, Meramec avenue and Shaw boulevard, he added.

Similar studies have been made on the Wabash route at its intersections with Sarah street and Boyle, Newstead and Taylor avenues.

REDS ANSWER LI ON PEACE FEELER, STEP TO OPENING OF NEGOTIATIONS

One of Acting President's 5-Man Delegation to Go to Peiping to Confer as 'Private Citizen.'

By HAROLD K. MILKS

NANKING, Feb. 5 (AP) — Sources close to acting President Li Tsung-jen said today the Communists had given an answer to his peace proposals. The reply was described as "at least the first step toward opening of formal negotiations."

While details still are lacking, it is believed that Li finally found a means of direct contact with the Communists other than by exchange of open radio messages.

Li's personal representative, Shao Li-tze, expects to fly to Shanghai early Sunday to join a peace delegation leaving for Peiping. Shao, former Ambassador to Moscow, said earlier he would go as "a private citizen," not as an official representative of the nationalist government.

(The Reds announced in Peiping they would receive the Shanghai delegation as representatives of the people, and not the government. Red Gen. Yeh Chien-ying stipulated that the talks be secret.)

Two Missions to Peiping.

Two peace missions with no official status are due to arrive in Peiping in the next few days.

The first is the still incomplete group of Shanghai elders, headed by W. W. Yen, 73-year-old diplomat.

The other is a group of eight Nanking professors who have been waiting in Tsingtao since Tuesday for Communist permission to land in Peiping, which went over to the Reds Jan. 22.

Neither mission has authority to negotiate for the Nationalist government, but were to explore the possibility of direct peace talks.

The fact that the Communists appear willing to talk to them is regarded as a hopeful sign that the Red demands are being toned down. The Communists had demanded detention of Chiang Kai-shek and other Nationalist leaders listed as "war criminals" as a preliminary to any peace negotiations.

Other Red demands called for virtual unconditional surrender by the Government. After the Red radio broadcast such conditions, Government leaders began pulling out for Canton in the south. It was reported that Li is sending Chiang's private four-engined plane, Cloud Chaser, to carry Yen's mission.

One Nanking source said the failure of Communist armies to push on to the north bank of the Yangtze opposite the capital is encouraging Li's group. This source added "there is no fighting of any importance going on anywhere."

Gold Yuan Hits New Low.

The gold yuan, Nationalist paper money, hit a new low of 1500 to one United States dollar in two hours of wild trading today in Shanghai. By mid-afternoon, it rebounded a bit, to 1300 to $1. Police were trying to round up speculators.

Last August, the gold yuan was issued at four to $1 to replace the postwar Chinese dollar. The old dollar had tobogganed from 2500 to $1, in 1946, to 13,000,000 to $1, August 1948.

Meanwhile, the Government opened its provisional capital in Canton and looked to its defenses by moving an army of 15,000 men south from Shanghai.

Although a Government spokesman said Canton would begin functioning as a capital today, few ministries were ready for business. Offices are scattered all over that city.

Premier Sun Fo and Foreign Minister Wu Te-chen arrived from Shanghai. Most of the embassies are keeping the heads of their missions in Nanking, where Li remains, only Russia so far has moved its ambassador to Canton.

Gen. Yu Han-mow, commander of Kwangtung's ground forces, set up headquarters at Kukong, a railway town 130 miles north of Canton. He is trying to organize new units for south China's defense.

United States Marines have given up their barracks on the Shantung University campus at Tsingtao and turned the buildings back to the university, V. Adm. Oscar C. Badger announced at Shanghai. Some of the Marines have moved into old Marine barracks on the Tsingtao waterfront and some have gone aboard ships into floating billets.

A Marine fighter squadron, which had been based at Tsingtao airfield, had been transferred to a carrier.

Badger said the movement of Marines was part of a general redeployment fo naval forces in the China areas as a result of many factors, including economy.

Welcoming Fugitives From Iron Curtain

CARDINAL'S TRIAL IS DENOUNCED BY VATICAN PAPER

Editor Says It Revolts Reasoning, Has 'Pathological Characterists' of Red System.

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano said today the Budapest trial of Cardinal Josef Mindszenty "revolts the reasoning and the conscience of the world."

Editor Count Gieuseppe Dalla Torre wrote:

"This event has not precedent in any political trial in history" except in Communist proceedings. It followed the "pathological characteristic" of the Communist judiciary system from the first, he said editorially.

"The accused admits everything, confesses everything, has no more words left for his defense. He became convinced of his own guilt in jail. He repented and awaits—if he actually does not invoke—a condemnation and a just penance," the editorial asserted.

Throughout the scathing editorial, Dalla Torre used "progressive" ironically, indicating the Communist Hungarian Government.

"It revolts the reasoning and the conscience of the world," he said "for a bishop, a cardinal, a confessor of his own faith . . . who did not bend for months, for years, in front of blandishments . . . and threats . . . to admit now everything, when to yield would not have been more harmful than to resist.

"The Cardinal resisted all threats while he was fighting his battle and even when he was near the end of his resistance. If stronger, unshakable and unvanquished morally, he was materially weaker in front of the omnipotent might of the State. He knew that he would not be vanquished but simply eliminated.

"Now, this man knew all this beforehand. He warned the Catholics and public opinion of the world of his innocence, of how legitimate all his actions had been.

"At that time, his writings and his voice were the writings and voice of a free man, not of a man in jail, and what is even more, of a man in a jail of a progressive revolutionary country."

U.S. Protests to Hungary Over Barring Diplomats at Trial.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (UP)—The United States has protested officially to Hungary over exclusion of American Legation personnel from the trial of Cardinal Josef Mindszenty, the State Department said today.

A spokesman said the protest was delivered to the Hungarian Foreign Office by Selden Chapin, American Minister at Budapest.

The State Department had said previously that the American mission had received three tickets to attend the trial, but members were not allowed to enter the courtroom.

Visiting Russians Seeing Virginia, Neon Signs a 'Fairyland' to Them

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 5 (UP)—Virginia gained a couple of converts from behind the iron curtain today, and a former American Navy cadet found out at last what that Russian girl said to him back in 1943.

That is the way things started as two former Russian air force lieutenants began to realize a dream that began months ago when they heard a Voice of America broadcast describing the charms of old Virginia.

The Russians — Anatol Barsov and Peter Pirogov — arrived here last night as guests of the Virginia Chamber of Commerce. It was the end of a journey that began last October when they "borrowed" a Red air force plane and flew to the American zone of Austria.

One of the first to greet the travel-weary pair when they arrived here for a week's tour in Virginia was Ralph Turner, who was a Navy cadet on the early wartime Murmansk convoy supply runs.

Now a University of Richmond student, Turner said he had a problem—what that Soviet girl said to him that day in Murmansk.

In faltering Russian, Turner repeated what the girl had said and asked what it meant.

Pirogov grinned and said: "Means I don't understand."

Gov. William Tuck dropped in to welcome his state's guests. He made a little speech about Virginia's proud history and said: "Always glad to welcome converts."

Barsoy said the most remarkable thing he had seen so far in the United States was a red and green neon sign on the outskirts of Richmond. It reads:

"Cabins $2 and up."

"Even in Moscow," he said, his eyes shining, "there is not such as this. It is like fairyland."

CARDINAL'S TRIAL ENDS; STATE ASKS FOR DEATH PENALTY

against the United States Government and its representatives, and against Cardinal Francis Spellman of New York and others, along the lines of previous charges in the Government's yellow book on the Cardinal's case.

"America wanted to influence Hungary economically and politically," he said. "There is no doubt about it but that the Mindszenty movement was based on imperialist organizations which speculate on a third World War and on suppression of the whole world by America.

"This was not a dream of an aged man who wanted to have back the past but a dangerous organization to overthrow Hungarian democracy.

'That Was Treason.'

The prosecutor said the Cardinal aimed to induce the United States to interfere with the internal affairs of Hungary and to declare war.

"That was the treason," he said.

He said his case was not based on any pastoral letter or sermon by the cardinal although these also contained parts which could easily induce prosecution.

The charge, he said, is that Cardinal Mindszenty led an organization to overthrow the "democratic republic of Hungary and to help Otto Hapsburg to the throne."

"There is no name more hated in Hungary than the name of Hapsburg," he added.

He said the defendants "speculated on a third war after those two in which this country was defeated and in the interest of their aims they were in contact with agents and certain authorities of the United States."

An authorization given to Archduke Otto by the cardinal to represent Hungarian catholics abroad, the prosecutor, said, "was an idea" of Cardinal Spellman and the authorization was "aimed to increase the credit of Otto Hapsburg."

He said the Cardinal wanted the American Army in Germany to keep possession of the crown of St. Stephen, the religious relic going back to Hungray's first Christian king 10 centuries ago, "until he can put it himself on the head of Otto Hapsburg."

The crown was taken away by the Germans during the war and was recovered by the Americans in Germany. It is now in American safekeeping.

The Cardinal, said Elapi, organized a spying group and one of his agents was Dr. Zigismunt Mihailovic, "whom the Americans granted a false passport." Mihailovic was former head of Catholic Action here.

Defense Attorney's Statement.

Defense Attorney Kicko, commenting on the Cardinal's own statements, said there is no attack on freedom of religion in Hungary.

"On my part I would like to add that this people's democracy, when it made religious teaching compulsory in the schools, went further in this respect than countries of the West," he said.

He belittled the role of royalists in Hungary.

"It would not occur to anybody in Hungary to restore the Hapsburgs, not even those who opposed the people's democracy," he said.

Kicko declared there was no mass backing for such a royalist movement "and it would be impossible to set up an organization like this today in Europe when a front of peace, headed by the great Soviet Union, is increasing in strength daily."

Otto of Hapsburg, pretender to the Hungarian throne, "learned the profession of a king and is now without a job, strolling around the world," Kicko continued. "But he surely has no weight at all in America, a country of free thinking. Possibly society accepts him in America, but certainly not political circles."

"Lived in Ivory Tower."

Cardinal Spellman, he declared was not "a definite factor in American political life" and only those like Cardinal Mindszenty, "who lived after all in an ivory tower, could consider Otto and Spellman as serious factors."

One of the accusations against Cardinal Mindszenty is that he sought to restore the monarchy in Hungary. He has denied plotting to overthrow the government.

The Cardinal, Kicko went on, delivered no secrets to anybody. Information that he delivered — figures, data, statistics — were known to all.

In addition, the Cardinal did not use a penny for his own purposes, the lawyer said. He commented on the high official position of his client and his duty to arrange foreign currency affairs for his church.

Cardinal Mindszenty followed the statements of both Kicko and the prosecutor intenty. At one point, when Kicko remarked about a meeting of the Cardinal and Otto in Milan, the Cardinal signeled him, shook his head and made the word "Rome" with his lips. Kicko corrected himself.

Although there was a general impression that Kicko's appointment as counsel for Cardinal Mindszenty came through Government channels, the lawyer himself commented during his summation:

"My appointment by the cardinal is proof that he was given every freedom in preparing for the trial."

Text of Statement.

Following is the text of the final plea made by Cardinal Mindszenty, as translated from Hungarian by the Associated Press:

"Honorable Court:

"A man speaks to you on the right of the last word, a man who has an important office and is charged with crime.

"I have half of a century on my shoulder, half a century of definite education and principles.

"This education and these principles are built into the life of a human being like railway rails are anchored into the earth.

"This can bring reconciliation. The man has to consider principles as they are.

"I have been for more than 40 days before the police and the court.

"They ask me and I answer.

"The questions and the answers are not only for those who question me but in the meantime the man gives also an answer for his own soul.

"Did Not Lose My Good Will."

"From these answers which I give myself, I can draw the conclusion that I did not lose my good will in the course of my life and I am thankful for that to my God.

"I did not want to come into conflict with the laws of the state.

"And if I still collided once, this I admitted yesterday in this court without any mincing of matters.

"I regret it, I regret it today, too, and am sure, while remaining faithful to basic principles, I would do certain things differently in the same situation today.

"I state that according to my belief I am not and I have never been the enemy of the Hungarian people.

"I have no controversies with the workers and with the peasants to whom I and my family belong.

"I have no intention of taking away any rights from any category, but after the tragedy of the World War a most difficult historical role was waiting for me and it would have been my task to be the announcer of the light of the evangelism.

"It does not belong in my last statement but I have to mention it: the relation between the Roman Catholic Church and land reform was discussed and it is my duty to make an important statement as follows:

"The Bench of Bishops sent their blessings to the new farmers in their circular letter of May 1945, and declared four different times afterwards at home and abroad, stating that the Church does not request back the lands from the diligent little men and never will do so.

"Not Enemy of Peace."

"I am thankful to my God that according to my severe conscience I am not an enemy of peace. I had never been against peace. I only pointed out emphatically certain preliminary conditions in the interest of a long and lasting (Church-State) peace.

"My letter of Jan. 29 to the Minister of Justice, which was read in court, contains my standpoint of today. I do not want to quote now from my letter but I speak to the content of it.

"I confessed already that I came into conflict with the laws of the state in certain things concerning finances. I have already offered restitution. This is my earnest.

"I prayed this morning to my Lord and asked for peace in these heavy days.

"I brought the love of my Church to this courtroom, and I beg for this love for the Hungarian state to which I have shown obedience here.

"I also beg for this love for myself and may the Lord give wisdom to the court when they pass their sentence which may help a settlement at home and abroad."

PREMIER HERALDS ITALY'S ACT IN CASTING LOT WITH WEST

ROME, Feb. 5 (AP)—Italy has joined the movement for political and economic unity of western Europe because of the prejudice and hostility of Russia, Premier Alcide de Gasperi said following a cabinet meeting yesterday.

"From this moment," the Premier said, "Italy leaves its isolation—a consequence of a totalitarian regime—and enters the way of the independent democracies in a manner corresponding to the vitality and civilization of its people."

An earlier announcement disclosed Italy had agreed to help direct the economic policy of western Europe as a member of the steering committee of the 16-nation Organization for European Economic Co-operation.

EUROPEAN UNION SPONSORS CALL FOR EARLY START

Brussels Pact Nations Invite Others to Meeting to Draft Charter for Western Group.

LONDON, Feb. 5 (UP) — The five Brussels pact countries, announcing completion of recommendations for the proposed Council of Europe, today called for an early conference with other nations to agree on a charter for the regional organization of western Europe.

The secretariat of the permanent commission of the Western Europe Union made public the latest step in the project after a week of talks here. The five Brussels pact nations are: Britain, France, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

The Western Union foreign ministers agreed last month to take as the first step toward European federation the creation of a Council of Europe which would include a committee of ministers and a consultative assembly.

The recommendations call for the committee of ministers to discuss anything of concern to Europe "with the exception of questions relating to national defense." The consultative assembly would "act in a deliberative capacity and would make recommendations to the committee of ministers. It would have no legislative or constituent powers."

The committee would be composed of one minister from each country. Membership in the assembly would be decided by each country, and in accordance with the procedures chosen—that is, by popular vote, legislative appointment, or by appointment of the government in power. The assembly would make its decisions by a majority vote.

The Brussels pact countries want as many other European countries as possible to join them in the project. The council of Europe in effect would be a little United Nations of Europe. Admittedly it is being formed because of the failure of the U.N. to fulfill its earlier promises of providing security.

DEMOCRATS TELL TAFT HE DEFENDS 'A DEAD HORSE'

sion requiring union officers to swear they are not Communists.

Taft's battle to keep most of the present provisions of the law has kept him in one hard-pounding argument after another this week.

Last night an AFL officer accused him of writing the Taft-Hartley bill "simply to harass unions and break their treasuries." Taft denied that heatedly.

"Now you've alleged a motive that is utterly untrue," he snapped.

The AFL man, Lewis M. Herrmann, is a Republican member of the New Jersey Legislature, and secretary-treasurer of the International Labor Press, an organization of 220 union publications.

He told Taft that "at least 8,000,000 members of the American Federation of Labor" share his view.

"The boys in Ohio tell me they'll take care of things—including you—in the next election," he said. He meant the 1950 election, when Taft will seek a new six-year term.

Senator Donnell (Rep.), Missouri, questioned Herrmann on the subject of labor publications and what he called their campaigns intended to label the Taft-Hartley Act as a "slave labor law."

That started another of the clashes between members of the committee which have occurred often during the first five days of the hearings.

Senator Humphrey (Dem.), Minnesota, replied to Donnell's remarks by quoting from a speech Senator Aiken (Rep.), Vermont, made to the Senate in 1947, criticizing the activities of the National Association of Manufacturers in the period before the Taft-Hartley law was enacted.

Aiken spoke up. He said that when Humphrey, a new Senator, had been around a little longer he would discover how much other Senators like having their speeches quoted. But he added: "I still think the N.A.M. made one of the meanest, most vicious campaigns against labor unions I ever saw."

"But," Aiken continued, "the Senate reduced the inequities of the law to a minimum. You should have seen what came over to us from the House. That bill as it came from the House, in my opinion, virtually would have outlawed labor unions. I don't want to see labor make the same mistake this year."

Later Aiken told a reporter he meant that "the N.A.M. reached too far in 1947. I don't want to see labor reach too far now."

Yesterday there were two witnesses from business and two from labor unions.

The business witnesse approved of the Taft-Hartley Act, though they said it isn't perfect. The union witnesses assaulted the Taft-Hartley Act and indorsed the Truman-Thomas bill, though they said that isn't perfect, either.

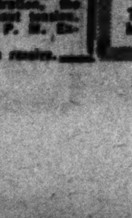

At one point, Chairman Thomas said some people seemed to be thinking of the Taft-Hartley Act as an "industry law" and the Thomas bill as a "labor bill." That's "most unfortunate," he said.

Democrats Refuse to Cancel Hearing for Dewey Speech.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (UP)—Democrats on the Senate Labor Committee have refused to cancel a Tuesday night meeting to let Republican members hear Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's Lincoln day speech.

Senator Wayne L. Morse (Rep.), Oregon, said he suggested the cancellation to a subcommittee arranging the hearings. But he said Senators James E. Murray of Montana and Claude Pepper of Florida, both Democrats and members of the subcommittee objected.

Test Pilots Killed

Two Test Pilots in Secret Experimental Craft Dead—Eight Lost in B-25 Crash.

EL SEGUNDO, Calif., Feb. 5 (AP)—One of the Navy's latest hush-hush jet bombers—the XAJ—apparently disintegrated on a test flight over the Pacific and crashed into the sea yesterday, killing two pilots aboard.

The dead were Albert W. Conover Jr., 28 years old, Torrance, Calif., project pilot, and Co-pilot Charles E. Brown, 25, Hawthorne, Calif.

North American Aircraft, builder of the three-engine experimental plane, was unable to determine immediately what happened. But private pilot Walter B. Ton, in the air at the time, said the big plane came apart.

"I first glimpsed it at about 4000 feet and could see clearly that the tail surfaces and the outer wing panels were gone," said Ton. "All that remained was the forward part of the fuselage, the inner sections of the wings and the engine nacelles."

However, it was learned the XAJ has folding wing panels and tail section for easy handling on carriers.

Other witnesses said the craft went into a steep dive and plummeted a mile and a quarter offshore. Two helmets were recovered floating near part of a wing, but no bodies were found.

The XAJ was one of three experimental bombers built specifically for Navy carrier use. It had one jet and two reciprocating engines. The Navy, which has ordered 28 XAJs from North American, has not permitted further details of the craft.

Blazing B-25 With Eight Men Aboard Crashes in Lake.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 5 (AP)—Two bodies and bits of wreckage are all that have been sighted after a blazing B-25 bomber with eight men aboard crashed into Lake Pontchartrain.

Capt. M. R. Roth, public relations officer at Keesler Air Force Base, Biloxi, Miss., said after a search at the crash scene late yesterday: "All eight men are presumed to be dead."

He said the plane was from Keesler with base personnel and air students aboard. None of the dead was listed as from the St. Louis area.

The twin-engined craft, streaking fire, plunged into the mist shrouded lake a mile and a half northeast of the New Orleans airport. A thickening fog last night halted a search, which was to resume today with diving operations.

The air traffic control tower at New Orleans Airport said the bomber radioed 22 minutes after the 4:25 takeoff that all was well. When the tower tried to call back at 4:55 p.m., there was no answer.

About that time Oliver Boe, a fisherman, said he saw the plane burning as it flew over near New Orleans.

"It disappeared in the fog and then there was a terrific explosion," he said.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 5 (AP)—Huntington Hartford, heir to the A. & P. grocery fortune, plans to endow a school for genius on a 41-acre tract in the Santa Monica mountains. An application filed yesterday with the city zoning commissioner by the Huntington Hartford Foundation so stated.

The institution's aim will be to bring out the best in some 50 to 75 graduates of universities. Writers, poets, musicians, sculptors, poets and painters will be among those chosen. About 20 buildings, to be designed by Frank Lloyd Wright, and an annual outlay of $150,000 are planned if the permit is granted.

IRAN BARS TUDEH PARTY AFTER SHAH IS WOUNDED TWICE

declared in Tehran after the shooting.

Even as the proclamation outlawing the Tudeh party was made public, supporters of the Shah stormed party headquarters and clubs, smashing furniture and pulling down slogans and signs. Those Tudeh members who were not arrested fled.

Reference to Azerbaijan.

The proclamation accused the Tudeh party of fomenting revolution and unrest throughout Iran which culminated in the assassination attempt. It said the Tudehites threatened Iran's "several thousand years of independence."

"These treacherous elements earlier attempted to disrupt relations between Azerbaijan and Tehran," the proclamation said.

The northwest Iranian province of Azerbaijan, lying along the Russian border and occupied by Russian troops for a time after the war, attempted some time ago to break away from the Tehran administration. Government troops marched into the province and put down the dissident elements.

Among those arrested were Seyed Abolghasem Kashani, foremost Moslem cleric; his son-in-law, five Tudeh leaders and two editors of rightist anti-Shah newspapers.

Dissension Over Oil.

Iran has been torn by political dissension as a result of its oil and has been an important battleground in the East-West cold war. Leftist political factions have favored granting oil concessions to the Soviet Union. Russia has been demanding such concessions, but the anti-Soviet group in Iran has firmly resisted the demands. The British-owned Anglo-Iranian oil company is the only one now drawing oil from the Iranian fields.

The assassination attempt yesterday came a day after 2000 students marched around the Majlis (parliament) building and demanded cancellation of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. concession. They scattered leaflets saying, "We cannot surrender the most precious resources nature prepared for us for over 50,000,000 years gratis to foreigners and die of hunger over a sea of black gold."

Inside the Majlis the finance and foreign ministers told the Chamber of Deputies that the Government was doing all in its powers to recover its "legitimate rights" from the company.

The Shah succeeded to the throne on the abdication of his father in 1941. The old Shah abdicated after British and Russian troops invaded Iran after accusing him of being pro-Nazi.

The present ruler of Iran, formerly called Persia, less than three months ago divorced Princess Fawzia, sister of King Farouk of Egypt, Farouk Simultaneously ended his marriage to his queen, Farida. Neither queen had borne a son to her ruler-husband.

The diplomatic corps here sent messages of condolence to the Shah following the assassination attempt. A message of sympathy was received from President Truman.

VOLCANO ERUPTS IN JAPAN, SCATTER ASHES 100 MILES

TOKYO, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Tokyo Weather Bureau reported today that Mount Yake, a 7900-foot volcano dormant for 97 years, erupted violently and scattered ashes over a 100-mile area.

Mount Yake is about 150 miles from Tokyo, in west-central Japan. Its previous eruption was in November 1852.

The Weather Bureau said its information was scanty because the area is snowbound. However, it was reported that ashes fell on surrounding areas for about 20 minutes after the eruption.

'SCORES' ARRESTED IN 'PLOT' TO KILL POLISH LEADERS

Time Bomb Reported Found Near Building Where Council of Ministers Meets.

By LARRY ALLEN

WARSAW, Feb. 5 (AP)—Polish security police announced today the arrest of "several scores" of former members of the Home Army. It said they had been plotting against the lives of government chiefs.

An unconfirmed report said authorities found a time bomb near a government building where the Council of Ministers meets. Names of leaders police said were marked for death were not made public, but the Council of Ministers is composed of President Boleslaw Bierut and six other officials who rule Poland by decree.

Terrorist Plot Charged.

Those arrested were charged with planning acts of terror. The Ministry of Public Security said "other groups" working with officers and soldiers of the Home Army had collected arms and explosives to assist their planned activities. It added the "organization was liberally assisted with dollars from abroad."

The Home Army, or Armii Krajowy, fought the Nazis during the 1944 Warsaw insurrection. Its members emerged from the forests and other hideouts by the tens of thousands in 1945 and 1946 under a general government amnesty designed to break armed resistance to the Warsaw government.

Polish Communists and left-wing Socialists in mid-December gave Moscow-backed Communists absolute control of Poland. All acts of the Council of Ministers have immediate legislative effect and are approved at succeeding sessions of Parliament.

The roundup was the biggest announced by security authorities in more than a year. While the exact number arrested was not disclosed, police said they had all the ringleaders. The term "several scores" may mean anything from just under 100 up to 200.

Arms Reported Seized.

Police reported that in raids on the homes of former Home Army members they seized a heavy machine-gun, two tommy guns, 22 automatic rifles, 15 revolvers and 14 hand grenades. They said they also found a large quantity of explosives, detonators, ammunition, two military radio transmitters and a "large amount of gold and paper dollars."

The ministry said the investigation was continuing "in order to do away completely with criminal activities" of the group.

Underground activity has appeared increasing in recent months, although the ministry long ago proclaimed that underground bands had been virtually liquidated. It is reliably estimated that 21 Polish Communists or Government workers were slain by such bands in the last two months.

The Government assertion that those arrested were financed by dollars follows a long-standard accusation, either direct or implied, that the United States is responsible for Polish internal troubles. Security Minister Stanislaw Radkiewicz recently declared that "reaction" — meaning everything opposed to the Warsaw Government—"has been reduced to an intelligence service agency in the pay of the most aggressive imperialistic power—the United States."

CITY CALLS FOR $20,000,000 CUT IN THE RATE BASE SOUGHT BY P.S.CO.

By RICHARD G. BAUMHOFF
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 5—A new challenge to the Missouri Public Service Commission to knock the depreciation reserve out of the rate-making base of St. Louis Public Service Co., with marked effect on allowable earnings to the benefit of transit passengers, has been made by the city of St. Louis.

This was done through testimony yesterday of the final witness in the hearing of the company's application for annual bus and streetcar fare increases of $3,010,000. The commission took the case under submission and is expected to hand down a decision soon. There will be no briefs or oral arguments.

Under the city's proposal, made by Director of Public Utilities Harry C. Brockhoff, the rate base, on which the company would be allowed to seek a return or profit, would be $32,043,606. This contrasts with the company's contention for a $52,840,010 rate base. Brockhoff's computation provided for deduction of the $14,618,418 depreciation reserve from the original cost of the utility property. This reserve, accumulated out of annual charges in operating expenses, is equivalent to 29 per cent of the original cost of the property.

Effect on Fares.

The difference between these two rate bases, at the 6½ per cent rate of return the Missouri commission heretofore has considered reasonable, would represent about $2,450,000 a year in fares. Neither the company's proposed fare schedule nor an alternate and sharply limited one suggested by the city yesterday contemplates, however, earning as much as 6½ per cent return.

If the commission prefers not to deduct the depreciation reserve in entirety, it should take the alternate step of subjecting Public Service Co. to the commission's standing Order 38A, Brockhoff declared. He asserted the commission, in adopting that order, had approved the principle that either one or the other of these treatments should be followed.

Order 38A, applying to virtually all public utilities in the state except urban transit and other transportation systems, is the equivalent to partial deduction of the reserve. It accomplishes this by setting up a theoretical earnings charge against the reserve. Many other utility regulatory bodies in the nation now use the method of full deduction of the reserve from the utility investment. The Missouri commission refused to change its plan, which is more favorable to the utilities, in the recently decided Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. rate case.

Another Deduction Urged.

Another important point in the rate base submitted by Brockhoff, an engineer, was that $2,030,687 should be deducted from the allowable utility property investment of Public Service Co. for overhead costs of construction improperly charged. Brockhoff's contention on this was that these costs, dating back to operations of the old United Railways Co. in 1919 and previously, had been paid out of operating expenses. If that is correct, they are not properly allowable as part of the capital investment.

Relatively easy and brief cross examination by company counsel resulted from the city's alternate fare schedule proposal, and no rebuttal testimony was offered. Chief features of the city's plan, presented by Henry P. Ingebritsen, its utilities engineer in Brockhoff's department, call for keeping the cash fare at 10 cents, instead of going to 12 cents as sought by the company, and putting the burden of increases chiefly on riders making heaviest use of weekly passes.

The city recommended that the weekly pass be kept at $1.50, instead of $1.75 as asked by the company, but that a charge of 5 cents be made for each ride on a pass in excess of 15 a week. Ingebritsen suggested the use of punches to mark off the first 15 rides or detachable strip tickets. In 1929-32 the company had had a 12-ride ticket on which punches were used.

Company's Objections.

Questions were raised by company counsel showing concern over the possible slowing down of service by the city's plan, to punch cards or take up strip tickets. Pass holders now merely exhibit their cards on entering the transit vehicle. The company critically called the city's idea a "commutation" such as suburban railroads use. Ingebritsen said the mechanics of handling constituted a problem for the company.

He said transfers could be issued to users of tickets under the city plan. Pass users now do not need transfers.

The company showed an error in a calculation of its income tax requirements by Ingebritsen, through his inclusion on a 1949 account of a deductible loss applicable to earlier years, over a streetcar line abandonment. However, other abandonments are in prospect, which, if carried out, will offset this.

Emphasis on Zone Fares.

Much emphasis was placed on the possibility of establishing a zone system of fares, particularly for the St. Louis county suburbs, in the course of the last two days of the hearing. Members of the commission seemed to evince an interest in the idea, which was urged by the city and commission counsel and not vigorously opposed by the company. Some questions were raised by the company over physical, financial and public relations problems of zone fare handling.

Brockhoff testified in contradiction of the company's idea that prices would continue to rise. He said prices were leveling off, nationally. As an example pertinent to transit operation, he stated that the city recently made a contract to buy gasoline 2 cents a gallon cheaper than six months previously.

Carburetors Spill in Truck-Train Crash

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

Automobile carburetors and fuel pumps were scattered along the Terminal Railroad Association right-of-way yesterday after a trailer truck was struck by a Rock Island freight train at the Geraldine avenue crossing. Arnold Moore, truck driver for the American Carloading Corp., said his view was obscured by freight cars on a siding. Norman Dunn, superintendent of the carloading firm, estimated the value of the carburetors and fuel pumps at $100,000. They were consigned to the Chrysler Corp. in Detroit by the Carter Carburetor Corp., 2840 North Spring avenue.

SHERIFF SUGGESTS CITY FURNISH HIM A STATION WAGON

Callanan Wants Vehicle to Transport Prisoners to Penitentiary, Training Schools.

Purchase by the city of a station wagon for use by the sheriff's office in transporting prisoners to the state penitentiary at Jefferson City has been suggested by Sheriff Thomas F. Callanan, he announced today.

Callanan said convicted prisoners now must wait in city jail until about 40 have been accumulated in order to fill a railroad car. As time spent in jail does not count on the penitentiary sentence, some prisoners have paid for their own transportation and that of a deputy sheriff in order to start serving their sentences, he said.

He said the station wagon also would be useful in transporting prisoners to hospitals when treatment and examination are required, and for removal of youthful prisoners to the state training schools at Boonville, Tipton and Chillicothe. He said he is inquiring into the cost of such a vehicle and plans to propose the purchase of one to the city administration.

MAN AND MOTHER TEAM UP, CAUSE ARREST OF PAIR

Thomas J. O'Brien of Louisiana, Mo., who was seized yesterday as he climbed out the rear window of a home at 2922 South Thirteenth street, can lay the arrest to the ability of Donald Martin, 1310A Arsenal street, as an amateur detective.

Martin told police that at about 5:30 p.m. his mother, with whom he lives, heard someone tampering with the front door. As she looked into the lower hall from the second floor, she said, she saw the door open and two men walk in. The men saw her, turned and walked out. Mrs. Martin called her son.

He followed the two intruders while Mrs. Martin telephoned police, who followed, and in the 2900 block of South Thirteenth saw Otis L. Ruyle as he threw a crowbar under an automobile. Martin identified him as one of the two who had broken into the Martin home a few minutes earlier.

Martin told police the other man, O'Brien, had gone into the house at 2922 South Thirteenth. He said he had inquired at a grocery near by, and was informed that the occupant was not at home. Police surrounded the place and arrested O'Brien as he came out the window a few minutes later. Mrs. Barbara Amann, who lives there inspected her home and told police it had been ransacked but that nothing appeared to be missing.

4 HURT, BUILDING DAMAGED IN COLLISION OF 2 AUTOS

Four persons were injured early today in an automobile collision at the intersection of Clifton avenue and Arsenal street. One of the automobiles, driven by Marvin Stumpp, 3025 Laclede Station road, Maplewood, went out of control after the collision and crashed into a building at 6207 Arsenal street.

Stumpp and the driver of the other machine, Robert Horan, 1704A Allen avenue, were both booked on charges of careless driving and destruction of property. Stumpp said he lost control of his automobile after the accident and went over the curbstone on the opposite side of the street, hitting the front of the Kellog Plumbing Co. store.

The plate glass window and the window frame of the store were damaged. Those who were treated for minor injuries are Stumpp, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Meyerscough, 7399 Maple avenue, Maplewood, and Clarence Haas, 7356 Hazel avenue, Maplewood.

ADMITS BLUDGEONING OHIO CHURCH WORKER

Former Reformatory Inmate Tells of Killing Woman When Caught in Home.

ATHENS, O., Feb. 5 (AP)—Police today reported a former inmate of Mansfield Reformatory admitted killing Miss Eleanor Gifford, 52-year-old church worker whose bludgeoned body was found in her home near here last Jan. 5.

Sheriff George Bateman and Paul E. Brown, a private investigator, identified the man as Harry Dodds Jr., 20, of New Straitsville. The officers said Dodds admitted the killing after Miss Gifford discovered him and two others in her home. The three had entered the house bent on robbery, Dodds was quoted as saying.

Brown reported the confession came after a soldier stationed at Fort Knox, Ky., told Army authorities he was with Dodds during the robbery and named him as the killer.

Dodds was arrested as a suspect last Monday but steadfastly denied the killing, Brown said. He confessed after Bateman and Brown told him of the soldier's statement. The soldier was identified as Grover E. Rawlins of New Straitsville. The third man was not named.

Brown quoted Dodds as saying he knew Miss Gifford through her church work in the New Straitsville area. First degree murder charges have been filed against Dodds and Rawlins.

Miss Gifford's brother, A. Wallace Gifford, lives at 38 Hill drive, Kirkwood. He is an accountant for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. here.

GROUP OPPOSES INTEGRATED SEWER SYSTEM IN COUNTY

Opposition to the proposed integrated sewer system for St Louis county was voiced last night at a meeting in Clayton courthouse of about 100 county residents most of whom are members of a taxpayers' protective association.

John E. Mooney, Clayton attorney, who presided, listed the following points in opposition to a bill now being prepared for the State Legislature; appointment, instead of election, of a board of sewer commissioners would give the County Court a "virtual dictatorship"; the authority vested in the sewer commissioners by the bill could lead to unlimited spending; full use of present state laws permit the county court to establish a county-wide system, making new laws unnecessary. The meeting voted unanimously in support of Mooney's contentions. The opposition was the first by any group to the proposed law.

In 1947 the County Court appointed a committee of 105 civic leaders to study the sewer situation, and prepare a bill. The county now has 23 sewer districts, which would become a part of the integrated system.

NLRB DENIES AFL PLEA TO BE BARGAINER AT LACLEDE

The National Labor Relations Board, in a decision announced yesterday in Washington, denied the appeal of the AFL International Union of Operating Engineers to represent operating engineers employed by the Laclede Gas Light Co.

Local No. 2 of the AFL union contended that operating engineers were excluded from membership in the CIO United Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers by a previous NLRB order. The board said its previous order pertained to professional engineers but not to operating engineers.

The AFL union represented about 300 operating engineers prior to the merger of the St. Louis County Gas Co. with Laclede Gas. After the merger the union sought to bar a system-wide election, but was defeated in the courts and before the NLRB. The CIO won a representation election held under NLRB supervision.

16 IN ILLINOIS FISHERIES DIVISION ARE DISMISSED

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 5 (AP)—Dismissal of 16 employes of the fisheries division of the State Conservation Department was announced today by Director Leonard Schwartz.

He said the action was in line with his policy of reorganizing and streamlining the department.

"Most of these jobs are being abolished, but, where necessary, they will be filled to insure efficient and adequate service to sportsmen," Schwartz said.

The 16 fired included laborers, fish conservation agents and fish hatchery and hunting and fishing area personnel.

FEB. 18 DEADLINE ON TRUCK, TRAILER, MOTORCYCLE TAGS

Arrests to Start Next Day, State Revenue Department Aid Says.

The last day on which operators of trucks, trailers or motorcycles may obtain 1949 Missouri license plates for the vehicles, without risking arrests, will be Feb. 18, Del L. Bannister, deputy supervisor in charge of the St. Louis office of the State Revenue Department, announced today.

Police will be asked to begin arresting drivers of such vehicles not displaying the new tags the following morning, Bannister said. Trucks, trailers and motorcycles are not covered by the new permanent automobile registration law.

Bannister emphasized that operators of pleasure cars are not affected by the Feb. 18 deadline. No deadline has been set for such vehicles and probably will not be until after April 1, he said.

SUES FOR HALF OF $5000 QUIZ PRIZES; SAYS TICKET WAS HIS

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP) — A hotel night clerk has sued an Elkhart (Ind.) man for half of $5000 in quiz show prizes which the clerk says were won on an admission ticket he supplied. City court papers revealed today that Frank Lischeron, the clerk, maintains he had a ticket for the show the night of a "Winner-Take-All" contest on the stage of the Strand Theater.

Lischeron says he gave the ticket to Austin Jones of Elkhart, a Y. M. C. A. Railroad Association secretary, on the understanding any prizes Jones won would be divided evenly.

Jones was chosen from the audience to compete and won an automobile, a television set, an electric dishwasher, a rug, a gas stove, a silver fox jacket and a motor scooter, the papers state.

Lischeron asserts Jones failed to give him half of the winnings. A judgment against Jones was entered Dec. 29 but his attorney said Jones never had been served with the papers.

DRIVER OF CAR THAT KILLED MAN, LEFT SCENE ARRESTED

John Henry White, a Negro, 1415 South D street, East St. Louis, was arrested today, several hours after the automobile he was driving struck and killed LeRoy Holmes, a Negro, 2812 Bond avenue, East St. Louis.

Holmes was climbing into his truck, early this morning, in the 1500-block of East Broadway when his machine was sideswiped by an automobile which sped away from the scene. He died an hour later at St. Mary's Hospital of a fractured skull.

East St. Louis police notified police officers in the district to check company parking lots of the area for the automobile. It was found in the lot of the Lewin Metals Corp., Monsanto. Investigation showed it belonged to Wilbert Moore, 1811 Lawrence avenue, an employe of the plant. He told officers White had used his machine this morning and told him he had run into a telephone pole. When he was arrested, White admitted striking Holmes.

GIRL, 16, FINDS HER MOTHER SHOT TO DEATH IN BEDROOM

Mrs. William Blanner, 925 Noah avenue, Ferguson, was found shot to death in the bedroom of her home today by her 10-year-old daughter, Barbara. She had been wounded in the abdomen and a 12-gauge shotgun was at her side.

Barbara told police that she and her brother Billy, 5, and her sister Betty, 3, were in the house when the shot was fired. Mrs. Blanner's husband said his wife had been a patient at the State Hospital at Farmington and returned home from there three weeks ago. He said she had threatened to take her life on several occasions. An inquest will be held Monday.

P.S.CO. TO STUDY NEED FOR MORNING ART SHOW BUSSES

Rathbone Criticizes Lack of Transportation to Masterpieces in Early Hours.

Public Service Co. promised today to reconsider the request by City Art Museum officials seeking morning bus service to the museum in Forest Park. More persons would be able to see the Berlin masterpieces exhibition if the bus schedule were extended, museum officials believe.

Perry T. Rathbone, director of the museum, criticized the Public Service Co. yesterday for failing thus far to provide special service in the morning hours. Under the existing arrangement 5-cent busses operate between the Lindell-Kingshighway circle, opposite Hotel Chase, to the museum between 2 p.m. and 10 p.m. only. The museum is open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Thomas P. Bedford, assistant operating manager of Public Service Co., said the utility had been observing museum attendance closely but had not yet been convinced of the need to extend the bus schedule.

No Morning Busses.

No special busses will run today or tomorrow before 2 p.m., he said, but as many extra busses as are needed to accommodate waiting crowds will be provided from 2 p.m. to 10 p.m. tomorrow. Bedford mentioned the Hampton bus line, a two-way route through the park, as another means of easing the problem.

Hampton busses deposit passengers at the foot of Art Hill near the Zoo's bear pits. Bedford estimated the uphill climb to the museum as about three-tenths of a mile.

Rathbone's statement, issued late yesterday, follows, in part:

"In response to mounting requests for more adequate transportation to the current exhibition of European masterpieces, the City Art Museum wishes to announce that for the last two days it has sought to have the schedule of special busses running to the museum extended, and its requests have been rejected by the Public Service Co. . . .

"Apparently the Public Service Co. believes that the attendance up to 2 p.m. does not warrant the bus service. Yet, today alone, 3923 persons managed to get to the museum by their own means without bus service. On other mornings attendance has averaged between 2000 and 3000 persons before 2 p.m.

"As early as 9 a.m. yesterday a sizable group of persons was waiting at the Kingshighway terminus. Seeing them on my way to the museum, I stopped and discovered they assumed that a bus would be there soon. I picked up several in my own car and tried to explain to the rest.

Opportunity for City.

"St. Louis has an opportunity to make a national reputation as a city where great art is warmly received and appreciated. This will help our city immeasurably in obtaining other great exhibitions. But attendance is bound to suffer if large numbers have no transportation during nearly one-half of the exhibit time.

"We are trying to encourage attendance during the morning hours, in order to stagger the crowds and thus assure all visitors ample opportunity to view the paintings. This is to the benefit of both the museum and the public. Yet the Public Service Co.'s present position effectively counteracts much of this effort.

"On behalf of the public as well as the museum itself we earnestly hope that the Public Service Co. will reconsider its position. And to the public, I'd like to say that the museum welcomes with special warmth all those who can get to the exhibition before 2 p.m.

"We feel convinced that the attendance figures themselves will produce the most convincing proof of the need for extending the bus schedule into the morning and early afternoon hours."

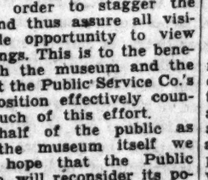

Attendance at the exhibition yesterday was 9501, establishing a new week-day record for visitors to the museum. Total attendance for the six days since the exhibition was opened reached 52,806, a new record for such a period. A spokesman for the museum said today that it was anticipated another record-breaking crowd would go to the museum tomorrow.

Dryness Warps Frames.

The wooden frames of the paintings have become so warped from dryness at the museum that the German curators accompanying the collection on the tour urged yesterday the use of humidifiers in two of the galleries, it was reported by Harry G. Weiss, building superintendent. Rathbone supplied one humidifier and another was lent by the Carrier Corp., Weiss said.

The paintings, 94 in number, are of inestimable cultural and esthetic significance. They were found in a salt mine by American troops in Germany. There they had been hidden by Berlin museum officials. The works were brought to the United States for safekeeping and will be returned to Germany after the present tour. The St. Louis showing will end Feb. 17.

Rewed After Fake Divorce

RICHARD R. CAMPBELL of Cleveland and his wife, FLORENCE, recipients of an unwanted and uncontested divorce, were remarried yesterday after a judge refused to vacate the decree and cited them and three newspaper men on contempt charges. Campbell, makeup editor for the Cleveland Press, was "represented" by the paper's court reporter, who wrote a story on how he obtained the fake divorce.

AFL COUNCIL INDORSES TRUMAN LABOR BILL

Group Thinks Lack of Injunction Authority Will Work Out All Right.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 5 (AP)—The American Federation of Labor yesterday gave its complete indorsement to the Administration's labor bill in Congress, including the disputed emergency strike section.

William Green, AFL president, said the AFL's 13-member executive council felt that the bill's lack of specific authority to obtain court injunctions to stop national emergency labor strikes would work out all right.

"After going over the bill in detail with our attorneys," Green told reporters, "the council unanimously decided to accept the measure."

Asked if the council had any reservations to its approval, Green answered, "No."

He said he expects to give the AFL's indorsement of the Administration's Taft-Hartley law repeal legislation to the Senate Labor Committee next Thursday. He said he would ask for a few minor changes in wording.

Discussing the bill's lack of specific government power to obtain emergency strike injunctions, Green said "That is a matter for the courts to determine. . . . I don't think the Supreme Court ever has ruled on whether the President can obtain a court injunction to stop a labor emergency."

But Green said the proposed system of a 30-day "cooling off" during which an emergency board would recommend a settlement is patterned after the Railway Labor Act, "which has worked out very well, with very few strikes."

"The same system in the Railway Labor Act has proved to be a very practical, constructive thing," Green said.

NEW NEGOTIATIONS FAIL IN BELLEVILLE BUS STRIKE

A negotiation meeting between representatives of 110 striking drivers and maintenance men for the Belleville-St. Louis Coach Co. and the company ended yesterday after five and one half hours, with an announcement that no apparent progress has been made. No date was set for another session.

A Protestant minister, a Catholic priest and representatives of Belleville business men and two unions not involved in the strike attended yesterday's meeting. Representatives of the United States Conciliation Service have been participating in the negotiations since before the strike started last Saturday morning.

The employes are seeking wage increases of 13 cents an hour. The company has offered about 5 cents an hour, payable in a lump sum of $60 as a Christmas bonus. The workers are members of Local 1018 of the AFL Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes. The company operates lines within Belleville, and between Belleville and St. Louis, Scott Air Force Base and Sparta.

45 PUPILS ESCAPE INJURY WHEN THEIR BUS CATCHES FIRE

Children on Way From Radio Broadcast Evacuated by Rear Door.

The 45 grade school pupils from Epiphany Catholic School, 6590 Smiley avenue, attending a radio broadcast of a quiz contest, escaped injury today when the school bus on which they were returning from the studio to the school caught fire.

The fire, caused by anti-freeze solution leaking on the hot motor, occurred near Twelfth street and Clark avenue. Billowing clouds of steam suggested a major fire, but when a pumper, hook and ladder truck and district chief's automobile from nearby Engine Co. No. 2 at 310 South Twelfth arrived at the scene, they put out the fire with a hand extinguisher.

5-MILLION-DOLLAR TRUMAN MEMORIAL STARTS WITH $2

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Feb. 5 (UP) — The Truman Memorial Building Fund—a $5,000,000 project—was officially under way here today.

Mayor Roger Sermon of Independence said two one-dollar bills were reposing in the safe at the city hall—contributions of two women. Miss Margaret Drinkard, and her sister, Mrs. Helen Skirvin, both of Kansas City, made the donations yesterday.

Both said they wanted to be among the first of the "common people" to contribute toward the erection of a block square memorial building in honor of the President. "We only have $4,999,998 to go," the mayor said. "I've already received numerous inquiries regarding the project.

CIO TO SEEK FOURTH PAY RISE DESPITE PRICE SAG

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (UP)—Research Director Stanley Ruttenberg said today the CIO would demand a fourth postwar wage increase this year despite declining living costs. Ruttenberg would not say how much his union would demand.

AFL economists said last night new pay rises should not be less than 5 per cent. On the basis of Government figures, a 5 per cent boost would mean increases averaging from 7 cents an hour to as high as 15 cents.

The two unions claim more than 13,000,000 organized workers.

RESTUDY OF CITY AIRPORT PROGRAM SOUGHT BY BOARD

Aviation Has Not Developed on Schedule—Delay in Projects May Be Proposed.

A restudy of the 1943 program for the development of major airports was requested yesterday by the Municipal Airport Commission because the postwar development of aviation has not reached the proportion anticipated when the program was adopted.

The commission asked the engineering firm of Horner & Shifrin to review the program and to recommend a new time schedule for the development of Lambert-St. Louis Field and the proposed construction of the second major airport at Columbia Bottoms.

Milton M. Kinsey, President of the Board of Public Service and chairman of the commission, said that 15 major commercial airlines lost money last year. The commission has taken the view that because of the failure of the aviation industry to grow as rapidly as anticipated the city should determine whether it should delay expansion of aviation facilities or whether it should proceed as originally planned, he said.

The city has expanded the size of Lambert-St. Louis Field from 600 to 1500 acres and is proceeding with the grading and building of drainage facilities on the site preparatory to construction of additional runways. It has purchased 4400 acres of land at the Columbia Bottoms site where extensive flood control and drainage facilities must be installed before construction of runways and other facilities can be undertaken.

COUNTY CHARTER PETITIONS TO BE TURNED IN NEXT MONTH

Petitions for a charter form of government for St. Louis county will be in the hands of the County Court early next month, Alfred H. Kerth, chairman of the St. Louis County Charter Commission, announced today.

Kerth said the petitions, requiring signatures of 26,400 registered voters, now contain more than 30,000 names. These provide, it is hoped, sufficient margin for the checkoff against qualified voters' lists. From the County Court the certified petitions would go to Circuit Court and Probate Court for appointment of a bipartisan commission of seven Democrats and seven Republicans. The commission would have one year to prepare a proposed charter for submission to St. Louis county voters.

GEN. HARRY H. VAUGHAN GETS DECORATION FROM ARGENTINA

(Picture in Everyday Magazine)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, military aide to President Truman, was honored by the Argentine Government last night with the order of the Liberator General San Martin.

In behalf of President Peron, Dr. Jeronimo Remorino, the Argentine ambassador, conferred the decoration on Gen. Vaughan in recognition of his "virtue as a soldier and an American."

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Against TVA Steam Plants

(TELEGRAM)

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Life magazine's Jan. 24 criticism of the nation's editorial writers states that the reason the editorial plea for economy won't be heeded is "lack of specific advice on what, where, why. Budgets can only be cut in detail."

Timeliness suggests that one of first places where spending can well be cut is in the TVA request for funds to build a steam generating plant at New Johnsonville, Tenn. The Federal Government plans initially spending $54,000,000 for the steam plant, with ultimate cost probably $200,000,000.

This would be the first steam plant constructed by the Federal Government any time, any place, for commercial purposes. If it is built, the Federal Government assumes a new function and will be in the electric business outright.

The proposed steam plant is no different from the proposed steel plant.

The Federal Government now produces hydroelectric power only, I repeat only, as a by-product to the proper functions of flood control, navigation, reclamation. If the TVA steam plant were authorized, a new pattern would be set and the Government could build others any place. And these, along with transmission lines, would open the door to enormous federal spending. As a matter of fact, plans for other steam plants are already announced.

We contend the area can get the necessary steam capacity without federal appropriations. Alternatives are: (1) industries in the federally favored TVA area can build their own capacity as they do elsewhere; (2) TVA can purchase power from neighboring private companies which are continuously increasing capacity; (3) large cities in Tennessee have good credit and can build their own plants separately or jointly. For further details please refer to pamphlet "TVA's New Design for Power" recently sent your paper. Will gladly answer your questions on this and related budget items.

P. L. SMITH,

Posy for the Bus Drivers

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

One hearty cheer for the city and county bus drivers during the cold and icy weather that claimed our city for at least a week. The men were patient, most courteous and careful with their many passengers. They are a credit to the city of St. Louis.

There'll Always Be a Ground Hog

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Thanks for the consideration — and space—you gave my old friend Mr. Ground Hog.

With all due deference to Weatherman Wahlgren's ability and scientific equipment, you just cannot rub out these old ideologies.

Up in my home town, Bowling Green, Mo., Uncle John Wise, the town druggist and bureau of information, and Uncle Jack Powell, assistant postmaster, kept a record of the weather. It was customary for us to make a special occasion of G-H day. I am here to tell you there were some tall tales told by the weatherwise—"Why I remember, back in 1840," etc., was the usual prelude to a "spell" of weather that made us sit and shiver our coat buttons loose as we listened.

W. E. LANSDOWNE.

P.S. 2-3-49—How about today, Mr. W.? Wasn't it just what Mr. G. H. said we would have, if he saw his shadow? Science and instruments average accuracy, but cold facts just can't be discounted.

It Was Funny to Him

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I know Republican National Chairman Hugh D. Scott Jr. didn't intend to be funny when he said, "The G.O.P. party label now stands for Great on Progress"; but I laughed for five minutes.

Thanks for Art Reproduction

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I am pleased to hear of the many St. Louisans who are enjoying the art exhibit at the Art Museum. Most of these people will never again see these fine masterpieces. I want to thank the Post-Dispatch for publishing some of the works and I hope more pictures and comments can be published to interest more people in these masterpieces.

Why Not More of Them?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Many St. Louisans will see the Berlin masterpieces, but many will never get the pleasure. I refer to the shut-ins and the sick.

I believe it would be a good idea for your newspaper to print more reproductions of the paintings.

Even those who can see the paintings in person will no doubt get many more hours of pleasure by collecting these reproductions in a scrap book.

Spotlight on Insurance

Pressure undoubtedly will be brought against the resolution for a joint congressional investigation of the life insurance industry. However great that pressure may be, it should not be allowed to prevail. The inquiry proposed by Representative Celler of New York and Senator McCarran of Nevada (chairmen respectively of the House and Senate Judiciary committees) is not only in order, but long overdue.

In the interest of protecting the depositor and the investor, both the national banking system and the securities and exchange business are regulated by the Federal Government. Yet though life insurance has become a gigantic loan and investment business, it has only such regulation as is provided by state administration, which, as everyone knows, is frequently very lax.

A few facts will make it abundantly clear how deep insurance companies are in the investment business. In the last 10 years insurance companies have increased their assets many times. The five largest life companies in the New York area have an income each year of five billion dollars. These companies are the largest owners of railroad securities. One of them is the largest single owner of farm land in the country.

These facts lead Representative Celler to this conclusion:

> The insurance companies have a concentration of economic power, with self-perpetuation in office of their directors and officers, together with a tangled web of interlocking directorates, that enable the companies to formulate a financial policy stronger than the policy of the national Government itself.

Certainly if the insurance companies are to be big financiers, influencing and giving shape to the investment business, they should accept regulation which protects the nation against misuse of concentrated power. The companies should not be allowed to hide their financial operations and influences behind the many and diffuse cloaks of state regulation.

Forty years ago Charles Evans Hughes made history as counsel for the Armstrong investigation into the biggest insurance companies of the time. Out of his disclosures of bad not to say scandalous practices came reforms for which the life insurance companies themselves were soon grateful.

When Hughes examined the insurance executives in 1905, the total life insurance in force in the United States was about 12 billion dollars. In 1947 it was 188 billion—15 times as much. The growth of the business alone is cause for another fact-finding inquiry.

Under the resolution of Celler and McCarran, the congressional investigation would be conducted by six members of the two judiciary committees, their report to be submitted by June 30. It could be one of the most important domestic works of the new Congress.

A DP Act That Doesn't Work

A Displaced Persons Act which the Eightieth Congress passed last year was wrong to begin with. It contained restrictions discriminating unfairly against Jews and Catholics. These restrictions have proved to be as unworkable as they were unjust, and the Displaced Persons Commission is denouncing them to Congress.

Together with other arbitrary limitations requiring that a certain percentage be agricultural workers and setting up unnecessarily harsh measures to insure that no DP will become a charge on the public, the hobbles on the act have pretty effectively prevented it from getting anywhere.

In six months, only 2499 persons have been admitted, and when the burdensome requirements of the act are examined the wonder is, not that there have been so few, but that there have been so many.

For the sake of the suffering DPs, and for the sake of administrative common sense, the Eighty-first Congress cannot fail to strike off the hobbles from this act and let the commission get to work.

Utopia Bank & Trust Co.

A very pleasant loan policy has been adopted by the Flushing National Bank in New York. The customer who has come upon a rainy day picks up the loan without collateral or indorsers, simply by signing a receipt. He pays no interest, and returns the loan when he no longer needs it.

Sounds like the land where the ham tree grows and the woodbine twineth, doesn't it? There's only one slight hitch. The loan in question isn't money, it's umbrellas. And if we know our bank policies, it'll keep on being just umbrellas, we betcha.

Should Congress Be Televised?

To televise Congress, as Senator Pepper of Florida and Representative Lane of Massachusetts, propose, could help a great deal in increasing the effectiveness of that body.

Of course it would provoke a certain amount of playing to the galleries. But in the long run the effect would be for more attention to the job, its dignity, and better debates on the floor.

In his book, "A Twentieth Century Congress," Senator Kefauver of Tennessee says that the reaction of American youngsters who go to Washington and see Congress at work is one of disappointment and disillusionment. In the Senate "they may see a great argument on a vital international issue suddenly interrupted by a Senator who will proceed to make a long speech that has no bearing on the subject being debated.

"They may see a Senator making a speech to an almost empty chamber. They may see his colleagues reading newspapers or just wandering in and out."

In the House "they may see less than 10 per cent of the members on the floor," milling, talking, bobbing in and out of the rear of the chamber where the cloakrooms are located, while a member is speaking earnestly in the well of the House.

"This is not to contend that Congress can order its business so as to produce, every day, an exciting, historic drama," Senator Kefauver writes. "But it should spur thoughtful members to demand a searching inquiry into the present procedures on the floor of both the Senate and the House."

What the Christian Science Monitor's Volney Hurd has to say about national conventions under the eye of television is appropriate to Congress also. He quotes from a radio colleague who wrote of the Republican and Democratic conventions: "To see some political hasbeen get up at the speakers' platform and mouth through a bunch of tired cliches . . . has to be seen to be appreciated. I think the next convention will be very different from the childish spectacles presented this year."

The party hack, the filibustering Senator, the hate-spouting demagogue, all would be realizable to voters through television broadcasts as they could be realizable in no other way. So, more happily, would be the fine qualities of members who bring fairness and sense of purpose and ability and hard work to Capitol Hill. If millions of voters were looking on as their representatives transacted their common business, able members would be inspired to their best, and the less able to emulate them.

Of Backbones and Taxes

The death-grip of the House Rules Committee has been broken only a month, and congressional voices are casting its lost power in the role of people's friend. Congressman Allen of Illinois, who headed it in 1947 and 1948, says his committee bottled up prodigal spending legislation to the tune of 21 billion dollars. Now that the bottling apparatus is smashed, Democratic leaders express fears that the House will go on a spending spree, beginning with Congressman Rankin's fantastic veterans' pension scheme.

Well, such are the risks of governing democratically. This nation has run them before, as when it adopted the direct election of Senators. It will run them again. The existence of Rankins and of ravenous pressure groups does not justify the restoration of autocratic power to the Rules Committee. Without that means to avoid having to stand up and be counted, Congressmen will simply have to get calcium in their backbones.

Their leaders, however, are worried. So they rest their hope of preventing prodigal gestures less upon backbones than upon the dread of raising taxes, which also walks with every Congressman.

Instead of using the threat as a spine-stiffener, mightn't Congress go ahead and raise taxes just because it's a good thing to do in a time of prosperity and towering national debt? Democrats have their cue from President Truman, who asks for increases even if on rather too narrow a base. Republicans have theirs from Gov. Dewey. New York State's need is less urgent than that of the Federal Government, but he is asking his Legislature to approve a large and broad-based tax increase.

Once Congress screwed up its courage and followed these cues, the downing of temptations to throw away money should be a cinch.

The Key Will Be Under the Mat

Leaving the key in the ignition switch of an unattended automobile is a violation of state law and encourages theft, as Circuit Judge Joseph J. Ward observed in passing on a case of larceny. What, however, does that do to the well-nigh universal custom of leaving the keys on top of the sun visor? Everybody knows they're probably there, so doesn't that encourage theft, too?

Furthermore, what about those popular repositories for the key to the house—the milk bottle, the mail box, and under the mat? What about the prevailing custom among men of keeping the billfold in the right rear pocket? Isn't it a standing invitation (seated, of course, it's more difficult) for the pickpocket to go into action?

Perhaps it's just some encouragements to theft that are illegal, and others aren't. At any rate it had better be, for we have noticed that when law and custom come into conflict, violations of the law have a way of becoming customary.

Levee Board at Springfield?

Benjamin O. Cooper of East St. Louis, new State Auditor for Illinois, has made an appointment to his staff which indicates that he still thinks he is president of the notoriously political East Side Levee and Sanitary District. This is his appointment of "Lefty" Walker, former pitcher for the Cardinals and Giants and more recently operator of the Glass Hat tavern, as his administrative assistant at Springfield.

There is, of course, no question as to the friendship between Mr. Cooper and his ex-baseball player friend. The doubt which comes up inevitably is whether "Lefty" Walker is the best equipped man the new Auditor could find for this particular place in the State Government. If the appointment is purely on the basis of personal friendship and old political connections, then it is the very sort of thing the people of Illinois voted to get rid of when they swept the Green Administration out of office. Certainly it takes more than the fact that the appointee was "superintendent of maintenance" for the Levee Board to qualify him.

State Auditor Cooper owes his office to the campaign and election of Adlai E. Stevenson. He was carried along by the vote against Dwight Green and Green's payroll padding, corrupt associates. Thus, Mr. Cooper is under the same obligation as Gov. Stevenson to raise the level of state appointments as high as possible. The last thing any new Democratic official should do is to introduce the East Side Levee Board scheme of things at Springfield.

Heyday for Soviet Movies

Pravda and other propaganda organs of Soviet Russia have been busy in recent months proclaiming that the airplane, the telephone, radar and most other amazing inventions have been the work of Russian scientists. They have practically rewritten the history of science, proving beyond doubt—to a Russian—that the Western nations have stolen or attemped to steal Russian inventions. Now comes word of a premiere of a motion picture in Moscow attacking American "cultural spies" and Soviet scientists who foolishly let their own inventions leak out to the other side of the Iron Curtain.

The film concerns a Soviet discoverer of a painkilling drug who succumbs to "bourgeois Western science" during a visit in the United States and permits publication of his findings before they are announced in Russia. At Stalin's suggestion, a court of honor decrees severe punishment for him. A sub-plot deals with the visit to Russia of an American professor who attempts to steal Russian scientific secrets.

The film evidently enjoyed a huge success. The Russian equivalent of Hollywood should be able to follow this success with a stream of similar ones. For instance, Ben Franklin, who was ambassador to France, could be shown visiting in Russia and drawing up plans for lightning rods from observation of those protective devices on Russian homes. A visitor from Russia named Thomas Edisonovich could be portrayed carelessly revealing the secret of the light bulb in the purlieus of New York. Ditto for Alexander Belisky on the telephone, Cyrus McCormicksky on the reaper, Ottmar Mergenthalersky on the linotype and John Ericssonsky on the Monitor.

Archeologists say peace pipes dug up at an Indian village in Delaware may date it. If it's peace, it certainly isn't the present date.

A Reply to the Electricity Lobby

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Defending its expansion plan, TVA joins issue with utility spokesman on all points; says surrounding areas lack surplus electricity to sell and the cost would be prohibitive anyhow; point outs that Congress pledged TVA to serve its region's total power needs.

A Statement by the Tennessee Valley Authority

Private utilities say TVA can purchase power from neighboring private companies which are continuously increasing capacity. The private utilities are having a difficult time supplying the needs of their own customers. It is debatable whether their new construction can keep up with their own growing demands. Assuming, however, that they would have sufficient capacity for export, the plan falls because of the cockeyed engineering involved. Construction of transmission lines for distances of 100, 150 or more miles to bring in this power would make its cost prohibitive.

Why should the people in the Tennessee Valley area be forced to go outside the area for high-priced power when it can be generated in their own area at much less cost? This question is asked in the light of the authorization by Congress for TVA to be the sole supplier of power in its area.

The utilities' suggestion is an effort to stall construction of the New Johnsonville plant by TVA. The uneconomical aspect of it will be apparent immediately to many electrical engineers. The laymen may well be deceived.

To Fulfill a Contract

The suggestion that large municipalities in the region should build steam plants, thereby eliminating the need for the New Johnsonville plant, is unwise and infeasible for several reasons. It would involve choosing several sites for steam plants, and some of the cities would not find favorable sites. A great many factors have to be considered, including sources of fuel, supplies of condensing water, labor supply.

Moreover, such plants could not be located so as to contribute to the maximum efficiency of the TVA system. None of the plants would meet all the requirements which dictated TVA's choice of the New Johnsonville site—the need for additional capacity in the western end of the system, the availability of ample supplies of water, and economical location as to fuel supply. In selecting a site for the steam plant, TVA was able to consider all the possible sites in the entire valley.

The municipalities and co-operatives which resell TVA's power at retail have contracts with their Government which promises to supply their electricity needs. Few municipalities and co-operatives would have signed these contracts had they been told there would be a calling on the amount of power which they might purchase.

Few Generate Their Own

Private utilities say industries in the federally-favored TVA area can build their own capacity as they do elsewhere. It is true that a few industries build and operate generating plants to provide power for their own use. This occurs in the Tennessee Valley region as well as in other parts of the country. But this usually happens not as an outright power supply proposition but because, for example, the industry processes require steam. If the industrial plant has to have boilers and other equipment to make steam, it becomes economical to use the steam also for generating power.

Generally, however, industrial plants prefer to purchase their power supplies from the existing utilities.

The suggestion that industries in the valley should be cut off from TVA power and made to construct their own power plants would take away from them the freedom of choice which industries in other parts of the country have, that of providing their own power by construction of plants or of depending upon the power company responsible for supplying their areas with electricity. Any industry has the right to demand that the recognized power supplier of a region shall provide it with electricity. In the TVA region, TVA is responsible for meeting the power demands and the industries are entitled to call upon it to meet their needs.

Is This Without Precedent?

When Congress in 1939 made TVA the sole supplier of electricity for the valley region through its authorization of purchase of the Tennessee Electric Power Co., it pledged in good faith to meet the needs of these industries.

Private utilities say the New Johnsonville steam plant would be the first steam plant constructed by the Federal Government any time, any place for commercial purposes. This literally may be true. The point is that if the word "constructed" were eliminated and replaced by the word "authorized" it would be wholly untrue.

In 1939 Congress authorized TVA to issue bonds and purchase in its entirety the electric power system of the Tennessee Electric Power Co. This included transmission lines, substations, hydroelectric dams, and steam-electric generating plants. Certainly this authorization was made with the full knowledge and consent of the Congress that this system, including the steam plants, would be operated for commercial purposes.

They Didn't Kick Then

Moreover, Congress in 1940 authorized TVA to construct a large steam-electric generating plant at Watts Bar, Tenn. It is true that in the hearings on this appropriation the desirability of the plant for national defense was stressed, but it was also pointed out that after the emergency it would have great peacetime value. That was a correct surmise.

The TVA Act, then as now, instructed TVA ". . . to provide for the national defense. . . ." In view of the impending power shortage in the Tennessee Valley area as well as throughout the country, the New Johnsonville plant will really have a place in national defense.

The Government during World War I built a large steam plant at Muscle Shoals, Ala. This was turned over to TVA by the act creating the Authority. The right of the Government to operate it for commercial purposes when its power was sold at an exceedingly low rate to a private utility was never challenged.

Wild Doings in California

THE MADRONE TREE, by David Duncan. (New York: The Macmillan Co., 1949. 230 pgs., $3.)

Hollis Alpert in the Saturday Review of Literature.

There are some eerie goings-on in David Duncan's second novel, which follows "The Bramble Bush," published last year. The tree of the title is a symbol of evil for the small town of Jonesville in northern California, and around it occur a number of wild happenings, all with unmistakable Freudian overtones. Essentially this is a tale that falls in the thriller category, but the author has attempted to give it some deeper implications. In or out of context, they're a little on the absurd side.

This madrone tree has, it seems, a satiny bark resembling human skin, and it stands in a clearing on the outskirts of town in an area known as the Bull Woods, belonging to and inhabited by the Kildonans, a family beyond the community pale. The Kildonans not only choose to live in the woods and flout the general fear, but they fail to attend the church services of the Reverend Manley Foxx. As a result they are avoided and feared. But this doesn't prevent the courting of Alisa Kildonan by some of the more daring gentlemen of the town, nor the erotic visions of her developed by the young school principal, Edward Spence.

David Duncan

Some 75 years before, a wandering missionary met his death near the madrone tree, and local gossip credited his death to a goring by a wild bull. Town legend still had it that the bull haunted the woods and sought for victims. Every now and then marks appeared on the tree—which could have been made by an animal sharpening its horns.

Jonesville is a lumbering town, isolated and backward. Mr. Duncan has chosen to mix some elementary Marx with his simplified Freud, and we find that between state (mill-owner Ivor Jones) and church (the Reverend Manley Foxx) the workers are held to a low standard of living and a non-striking frame of mind. Between the two they're kept hidebound and repressed.

The plot begins to gyrate fantastically when a stranger, Bleeker Twist, emerges from a passing bus one dark evening and calls on Edward Spence. Twist, a professor of "psychology," wants to do some research in the area, and the only place for him to stay happens to be an empty cabin in the Kildonans' woods. Not very long after his arrival, wild, maniacal laughter is heard near the madrone tree, a man is murdered there, and Twist interprets fresh marks on the tree. They were made by a whip. The bull never appears, by the way, except as a symbol of virility and license in the minds of the townspeople and Bleeker Twist, whose rationalizing ability makes much clear for both characters and reader. And he is the one who unmasks the sex-obsessed tree-flagellant and murderer.

Mr. Duncan does have a facility for neat construction, and it must be said that he winds up a number of incredible events into surface plausibility. But his allegory seems curiously old-fashioned these days. If one wants to read this as a story of suspense, the unraveling of some seemingly supernatural events can keep one guessing.

Irish Short Stories

THE LION TAMER AND OTHER STORIES, by Bryan MacMahon. (E. P. Dutton & Co., $3.00.)

MacMahon is a young Irish writer with a flair for the balladesque and an unusual earthiness. His short stories reflect the thinking and dreams of the people, and one has to read between the lines in order to detect their real meaning. Sometimes the plot is surprising, such as the story which tells of a dead man who was forced to write his will. In such instances the author rises to poetic heights. In "The End of the World" he proves his humor when he tells of his disappointment that the predicted disaster did not occur after all. The rare gift of story telling has found a new master in MacMahon.

DEMOCRATS VOTE TO OPPOSE G.O.P. GAG PLAN MONDAY

Caucus Decides to Await Anti-Filibuster Resolution From Committee Wednesday.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Senate Democrats agreed unanimously today to oppose a Republican move to force a showdown Monday on a filibuster-killing rules change.

Senator Byrd (Dem.), Virginia, came out of a closed party caucus to tell reporters that the Democrats had pledged themselves on a show of hands to vote against a motion by Senator Knowland (Rep.), California.

Knowland moved to take away from the Rules Committee and place on the Senate calendar a resolution under which two thirds of the Senators voting could limit debate at any time.

Under present rules, such a gag can be applied only when a bill actually is before the Senate. The rule does not apply to motions or other actions.

Knowland has contended that the only way the Senate can avoid filibustering against civil rights legislation is to change its rules.

Action Likely Wednesday.

Byrd said the Democrats decided to let the Rules Committee move in its own time to bring out a rules change resolution.

It is the general understanding, Byrd said, that the committee may approve Wednesday a resolution altering the rules to let a two-thirds vote curb debate at any time.

Since the Democrats outnumber the Republicans 54 to 42 in the Senate, unanimous Democratic opposition to Knowland's motion would kill it.

Senator Lucas of Illinois, the majority leader, told reporters the Democrats will force a vote Monday or Tuesday on the Knowland resolution.

"We are going to vote it up or down," he declared. He added that he thinks some Republicans will oppose Knowland's motion.

As the rules now stand, Southerners can talk as long as they want against a motion to take up a bill. Since the present debate-ending rule can be applied only after a bill actually gets before the Senate, Southerners have used the loophole in the past to block action on President Truman's civil rights program.

Dispute Over Pay Increases.

Chairman Murray (Dem.), Tennessee, noting that the bill his House Civil Service Committee began studying yesterday would increase some officials' pay 125 per cent, said he "couldn't see" that. He predicted there "will probably be some downward revision."

Other committee members also raised objections to parts of the Administration bill, which would increase the pay of 223 high executives and grant boosts running back to last July to some 13,000 lesser government workers. The total estimated cost: $1,600,000.

The measure would boost Cabinet officials from their present $15,000 a year to $25,000, while heads of lesser agencies would get amounts varying from $17,500 to $22,500. Department Under Secretaries and some other top officials now getting $10,000 would be boosted to $22,500. President Truman has asked for the pay rises, claiming that business can now outbid the Government for the services of good men.

Hearing on Housing Bills.

Members of the Senate Banking Committee and a Government expert agreed today that what the country needs to help break the housing shortage is "a good $6000 home." But there the agreement ended.

Committee members couldn't get together with Raymond M. Foley, head of the Home and Housing Administration, on how it should be done.

The question came up at subcommittee hearings on seven different housing bills, including an Administration measure calling for slum clearance, farm housing and more than a million low-rent public housing units.

Senator Cain (Rep.), Washington, who is critical of most Administration housing plans, asked about the "good $6000 house."

Foley, top Government housing official, replied that this goal is not possible in all parts of the country, especially where land is high-priced.

"But," he added, "in a significant number of places there should be production of acceptable houses in the $8000 to $8000 class during the year."

Then why, asked Cain, would the Administration program allow subsidized low-rent houses to cost as much as $12,500—or $2500 a room for a five-room house?

"Isn't that telling the housing industry that $12,500 is the goal or average because that's a subsidized home for people not able to pay a normal rent or own their own homes?"

Foley replied that $2500 was only a ceiling per room set for the areas where costs run high.

That gave Senator Douglas (Dem.), Illinois, a chance to ask about "restrictive practices" in housing, such as high material costs, high labor costs with low production, and antiquated building codes.

Foley said federal officials are working hard to push down such costs. But Douglas declared: "A certain degree of toughness is required. Responsible officials must use a tough hand."

PIANIST LIPKIN SHOWS BRILLIANCE IN CONCERT

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN

Seymour Lipkin, 21-year-old pianist and winner of the nationwide Rachmaninoff Fund prize contest, made his first appearance in St. Louis yesterday afternoon when he played as soloist with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra in Kiel Auditorium. As Lipkin's engagement with this and other leading orchestras of the nation was one of the rewards of his successful competitive effort, it was fitting that he should play one of the works of the composer in whose memory the Fund was established.

Although the "Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini" did not afford the soloist an opportunity to show the full range of his capacity, his performance made it quite evident that he had a talent of the first magnitude. A sparkling brightness of tone, power and close control at all dynamic levels, crispness of articulation and sure marksmanship were fundamental and consistent properties of his execution. Fast passages came off brilliantly not only because they were cleanly played but also because they were impelled by a rhythmic sense that gave a firm backbone to the phrase and extended through the line without emphasizing the metrical divisions.

The broader and yeastier parts of the rhapsody were imparted with feeling modified by restraint. Discretion is not the whole of maturity but it is an essential element, and Lipkin showed no inclination to deepen or distend the lyrical passages to make a more striking effect. On the contrary, these parts were stated simply and left something to the imagination of the listener.

From what was indicated, Lipkin appeared to be a thoughtful, discerning artist as well as a brilliant executant.

The orchestra under Conductor Vladimir Golschmann contributed vitally toward making the over-all performance closely knit, alert and sparkling. The small Friday afternoon audience was stirred to an unusual display of enthusiasm, and Lipkin played one encore, a Scarlatti sonata.

The orchestral part of the program was distinguished by a first performance in St. Louis of Prokofieff's Second Suite from his ballet "Romeo and Juliet." The transparent treatment of the score by Golschmann and his colleagues gave his listeners an admirable opportunity to examine one of the more lucid and emotionally affecting works of this versatile composer. It was affecting, not through subjective elaborations of expressive elements but because of its descriptive precision in portraying vital scenes from the Shakespearean story. The characterization of the two rival houses suggested power, pomp and discord, and a certain irony. The portrayal of Juliet had a simple tenderness, the dance a quaint charm, the scene at the grave an appropriate solemnity.

Though the material was approached objectively, the accuracy of delineation—in which the composer's deftness of instrumentation and characteristic harmonic changes were fascinatingly in evidence—provided all the necessary leads for an emotional realization of the changing scene.

Another rewarding part of the program was the tonally rich exposition of the Prelude to Act III of Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde." The melancholy English horn solo, played off stage by Walter Kessler, was beautifully phrased and poignantly expressive in its dark coloring. The orchestra also played Leon Algazi's "Largo," a fairly simple harmonic treatment of the Hebrew chant "Kol-Nidrei." Though effective it scarcely achieved the religious fervor commonly associated with Hebrew devotions.

The concert, which will be repeated tonight, was brought to a close with the waltzes from Strauss's "Rosenkavalier." The orchestra was in excellent form throughout the program.

Soviet Warns Swedes Over Atlantic Pact

Would View Adherence 'Aggressive,' Observer Says.

By STEWART ALSOP

(Copyright, 1949.)

WASHINGTON.

THERE have been two major events during the last week—Josef Stalin's "peace offensive" and the decision by Norway to consider joining the North Atlantic Pact, thus refusing to knuckle under to Soviet pressure. The meaning of these conspicuous events can be better understood against the background of what has been happening, most inconspicuously, in Carlsbad, Czechoslovakia, and Stockholm, Sweden.

The pressure which the Soviets applied to Norway took the form of an official note addressed to the Norwegian foreign office. The note was in effect a formal warning to Norway not to join the North Atlantic Pact, a warning which the Norwegians have courageously disregarded. It can now be reported on good authority that a less formal but much more tough and specific warning has also been delivered to the Swedes.

Soviet representatives in Stockholm have bluntly told the Swedes that Swedish adherence to the Atlantic Pact would be regarded in Moscow as an "aggressive act." Moreover, the Russians have warned that the most probable Soviet reaction to this aggressive act would be full Soviet occupation of Finland.

Stockholm Seriously Affected.

There is no solid information to indicate that any actual preparations have been made by the Russians to carry out this threat. Few preparations would be necessary, to be sure, since by the terms of the peace treaty the Russians already have a military stranglehold on Finland. But the threat is taken so seriously in Stockholm that the Swedes deeply fear that independent Norwegian adherence to the pact, which now seems definitely in prospect, may cause the Russians to carry out their threat. This would place Sweden in a terrifying military position.

The Russian threat may be wholly empty, as Russian threats, notably to the Iranians, have proved in the past. Full Soviet occupation of Finland would be an enormously dangerous step, since it would clearly break the peace treaty with Finland, and Britain as well as Russia (though not the United States) is a signatory to the treaty. But that the threat was made at all suggests how seriously the Kremlin takes the North Atlantic Pact.

Further evidence pointing in the same direction is to be found in the rally which has been going on in Carlsbad, the famous Czechoslovak spa. Andrei Vishinsky, the Kremlin's hyperthyroid troubleshooter, was originally scheduled to preside over this rally. But the most reliable information indicates that Vishinsky has in fact suffered a genuine and complete nervous breakdown. He is believed to have been removed from the Carlsbad sanitarium immediately after his presence there was reported.

Envoy Zarubin on Scene.

However, Georgei Zarubin, Soviet Ambassador to Britain, is known to have gone to Carlsbad. There are unconfirmed reports that he either has been or soon will be joined by Andrei Gromyko and by a Soviet marshal. A Polish delegation, believed to be headed by Foreign Minister Zigmund Modzelewski, has joined the rally, and there is a similar Czech delegation.

One of the assignments of Zarubin, who was involved in last year's coup in Czechoslovakia, is reported to be settlement of the row which has broken out in Prague between the "illiterate" faction of Czech Communists, headed by President Gottwald, and the "activist" faction, headed by Rudolf Slansky. Slansky is already considered the real ruler in Prague.

But the main purpose of the Carlsbad rally is to dragoon the Czechs and Poles into accepting Eastern Germany as a full-fledged partner and "peoples' democracy." The Czechs and Poles are not likely to accept the Germans as political brothers with good grace. One Czech Communist told this reporter last spring, "You can't trust any German—even the German Communists are fascists under the skin."

The step undoubtedly appears necessary to Moscow, as a prelude to setting up an "Eastern European Union." Such a union, to embrace the entire satellite area including Eastern Germany, is expected to be the Kremlin's answer to the North Atlantic Pact, if the current "peace offensive" fails either to break up the pact or to reverse the policy of the Western powers in Germany.

Both of these moves, the threat to Scandinavia and the rally at Carlsbad, are direct consequences of the North Atlantic Pact. The pact in turn is the consequence of Soviet policy since the war, and is designed to prevent the Kremlin from achieving its ambition of dominating all of Europe.

POWERS HAPGOOD, CIO EXECUTIVE, DIES

Found in His Auto Near Indianapolis—Helped Organize Labor Party.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 5 (AP)—Powers Hapgood, assistant to the national director of organization for the CIO, was found dead last night in his automobile beside a road south of Indianapolis. He was 49 years old.

He had just called on a physician and had been ordered to take a complete rest. A witness said his automobile left the road at low speed and came to a stop against a bush in a yard.

Hapgood had been active in labor for 25 years. He fought John L. Lewis for leadership of the United Mine Workers and later helped organize the CIO. He later was regional director of the CIO in Indiana.

A graduate of Harvard University, he worked in coal mines in the United States, Great Britain, Japan, Russia, France and Germany. In 1927 he went to Boston to help the vain attempt to save Nicola Sacco and Bartholomeo Vanzetti from execution.

He was Socialist candidate for Governor of Indiana in 1932 but later withdrew from the Socialist party.

He was the son of William P. Hapgood, who startled the business world 20 years ago by giving to his employes his business, the Columbia Conserve Co. He was the nephew of Norman and Hutchins Hapgood, prominent journalists of the early part of the century.

His wife, Mary Donovan Hapgood, is a writer and has been Socialist candidate for Vice President several times. There are two children, Barta, a student at Purdue University, and Donovan, at Harvard.

ARTHUR G. LEONARD DIES; HEAD OF CHICAGO STOCKYARDS

CHICAGO, Feb. 5 (AP)—Arthur G. Leonard, head of Chicago's big stockyards for the last 36 years, died last night. He was 86 years old. He was president of the Union Stock Yard & Transit Co., which operates the yards.

He went to work for the New York Central Railroad when 14 years old. He stayed with the railroad 22 years, going to the stockyards in 1899. He became general manager in 1900 and vice president of the company in 1907. Five years later he became president.

Credited with the development of the International Livestock Exposition, he provided funds for the first show in 1900, and continued to enlarge its facilities.

After the stockyards fire of May 1934, the present $1,000,000 international amphitheater was built. In 1922, Leonard built the Los Angeles stockyards, now the largest market on the West Coast.

George H. Kuhlmann, owner of Kuhlmann Dry Goods store, 325 North Main street, St. Charles, and vice president of the First National Bank of St. Charles, died last night of infirmities of age at St. Joseph's Hospital. He was 88 years old and lived at 302 North Sixth street, St. Charles.

Mr. Kuhlmann was a member of the board of directors of the Mutual Fire Insurance Co. and an honorary member of the St. Charles Rotary Club. He founded his business with two business associates in 1889 and has been sole owner of it since 1905.

Surviving is his wife, Mrs. Divanna Hackmann Kuhlmann, with whom he celebrated his golden wedding anniversary in 1937. Funeral services will be at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday at St. John's Evangelical and Reformed Church, 415 South Fifth street, St. Charles. Burial will be in St. John's Cemetery.

VICTOR A. OLANDER DIES; ILLINOIS LABOR LEADER

CHICAGO, Feb. 5 (AP)—Victor A. Olander, veteran trades union leader and for 35 years secretary-treasurer of the AFL Illinois State Federation of Labor, died today. He was 75 years old.

He had served as a labor representative on many state and federal groups for the last 30 years and was an active an influential figure in the Illinois Legislature. He was a native Chicagoan and was a Great Lakes sailor until his activity in the seamen's union led him into labor organization work. He was secretary-treasurer of the Seamen's International Union of America from 1925 to 1936.

He died at Michael Reese hospital, where he had been suffering from an acute anemic condition. He had been in ill health for more than a year.

56 Had Been Invited—Labor Leaders and Friends Help Bolster Attendance.

Nicholas M. Blassie, president of Local 88, AFL Meatcutters' Union, opened his campaign for the Democratic nomination for Mayor at an informal gathering last night at Hotel Melbourne. All 56 members of the Democratic City Committee had been invited to attend, but only five of them were present.

Attendance at the meeting, however, was built up by the presence of some 30 labor leaders, friends and supporters of Blassie, including Circuit Attorney James W. Griffin, who, speaking as a friend, praised the campaign program outlined by Blassie at the meeting, and concluded his remarks with, "may the best man win."

City Committee members who attended the meeting were Mrs. Emma Roesch of the Tenth Ward, Mrs. Margaret Butler of the Fourteenth Ward, James P. Lavin and Mrs. Nell King of the Twentieth Ward and Timothy M. Foley of the Twenty-fourth Ward.

Blassie displayed no dismay at the slim attendance of committee members, although he delayed opening the meeting for more than an hour past the scheduled time, 8 o'clock. He said that many of the committeemen and women had contacted him, frankly stating that they already are committed to support "one of my opponents" and, consequently, would not be present.

The opponent to whom he referred is Joseph M. Darst, former director of public welfare, who is reported by Democratic leaders to be favored for the nomination by a majority of the ward organizations.

"Just why men and women experienced in politics, who are considered to be experts in this science of human relations, should sign a blank check before they knew what the candidate to whom they are pledging themselves stands for, or whether some other, more desirable candidate, should enter the race, is amazing to me," Blassie said.

"Tide Will Change."

He expressed belief that "the tide will change" by March 1, and added, "We intend to go into those wards where the regular ward organizations are opposed to me and form our own organizations." He said he plans to conduct a "grass-roots" campaign and will go into private homes and address small groups of people "at every opportunity."

Blassie asserted he is an optimist, "but not so much of an optimist as to believe that the voter will vote for a party label without examining the stuff in the bottle."

He discussed the major points in his platform, previously announced, including slum clearance, merger of the residential areas of St. Louis County with the city, opposition to proposals which would result in increased streetcar and bus fares, improvement of the city's civil service program, and an exhaustive study of the city's tax structure to equalize the tax burden.

On Slum Clearance.

Stressing his interest in slum clearance, Blassie said:

"If we expect to keep St. Louis abreast of other progressive cities, if we wish to attract and keep high-grade, diversified industries, we will have to offer their employes decent housing, decent environment and decent community service.

"I happen to know more about slums than the average citizen because I was reared in one. Any of you who are familiar with the neighborhood in the vicinity of Third and Marion streets—1500 south—will know what I mean. People do not live in slums because they want to but because they are forced by circumstances to live there. This is one matter that is close to my heart."

J. B. CORN RETIRES AS HEAD OF MO. PAC. CONDUCTORS' ORDER

John B. Corn, who heads the seniority list of conductors on the Missouri Pacific Railroad, has retired after 34 years as general chairman of the Order of Railway Conductors on the Missouri Pacific system. "But I'll probably serve the brotherhood in some other capacity," the 76-year-old labor representative maintained today.

Corn had been a conductor for 18 years when he was elected general chairman of the conductors' brotherhood on the Missouri Pacific system in 1914. His daughter, Miss Bess Corn, has served as his secretary 20 years.

He expects to remain No. 1 man on the conductors' seniority list but the ranking is honorary and he would not be called to take a train. He started in 1891 on the Missouri Pacific freight line between Poplar Bluff, Mo., and Texarkana, Ark., then was advanced to conductor in 1896.

Corn served for 25 years on the six-man national executive committee of the Order of Railway Conductors until he resigned three years ago. He was a leader in the campaign for the eight-hour day. His home is at 2 Shaw place. George R. Ogletree of Cuba, Mo., succeeded Corn as general chairman for the conductors.

OPENING OF ORCHID SHOW

The annual orchid show of the Missouri Botanical Garden will open tomorrow at 9 a.m. at the garden's floral display house and continue through this month. The building will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Among the orchids displayed will be English Lady Slippers, which are about twice the size of the average orchid. Other orchids will include "Dancing Girls and White Moths.

MARKOS BELIEVED 'FINISHED' AS REBEL CHIEF IF NOT DEAD

Greek Guerrillas Announce Ouster as Political Boss—One View He Has Been Executed.

ATHENS, Feb. 5 (AP)—A major shakeup of Communist guerrilla leadership in the three-year civil war against the Greek Government has taken place. An underground radio announcement said the guerrilla chief, Markos Vafiades, has been relieved of his political leadership.

A spokesman for the Greek Army general staff said the broadcast, late yesterday from the "Free Greece" radio, supported Army suspicions that Markos had been executed for failing to "conquer Greece."

Alexander Papagos, generalissimo of the Greek armed forces, said he interpreted the broadcast to mean Markos—who preferred to be known by this single name—also had been dismissed as commander of the Communist-backed rebel forces. He said he could not confirm that Markos had been killed, but he said the announcement clearly indicated he was "finished."

Called "Obviously a Purge."

Foreign Minister Constantine Tsaldaris said "obviously there is a purge in the leadership of the Communist party."

Greek Government circles said they consider the action against Markos a result of the conflict between the Cominform and Marshal Josip (Tito) Broz of Yugoslavia. They said the Cominform now has put the Greek Communist party under its complete domination.

The rebels' radio announced that Markos, a long-time Communist, had been "seriously ill" for several months and could not "carry out important tasks assigned him." It said the central committee of the Greek Communist party, at a meeting on Mount Grammos on Jan. 31 "relieved" him of his political responsibilities.

Gy Vontitsios, who goes by the name of Gen. Goussias, was reported here to have succeeded Markos as guerrilla commander. He is understood to have been exercising the duties of commander since last August, when, according to reliable but unconfirmed reports, Markos was wounded.

On the agenda of the meeting, the announcement added, was a discussion of "the opportunist rightist movement in the Communist party." This is the language Communists have used to describe purges of Communist ranks in Poland and elsewhere and which the Cominform has used to describe the so-called errors of Marshal Tito.

5 New Politburo Members.

The broadcast said also that changes in the central committee were discussed and five new members were appointed to the Greek Communist Politburo. Four "reserve" members of the Politburo also were announced.

The radio said the central committee voted to relieve Chrisa Hadjivasiliou from her political responsibilities. She, too, was described as seriously ill for some months.

(A Greek newspaper man covering the United Nations at Lake Success identified her as the only woman on the Greek Communist Politburo. He said she is the wife of Petros Rousos, Foreign Minister in the so-called guerrilla government, who was listed as one of the four "reserve" Politburo members.)

The guerrilla announcement came as the Greek Parliament gave the new coalition Government of the aged Premier Themistokles Sophoulis a strong vote of confidence. The vote was 245 for the Government and 50 against.

Parliament also agreed to suspend until June 1. The Cabinet, composed of five parties, is expected to assume legislative authority in the interim while it concentrates once again on wiping out the Communist rebellion.

A little more than a week ago the rebels' radio broadcast peace proposals which included the condition that United States military assistance be ended.

The Government rejected them as "sheer propaganda."

CHURCH TO PROCEED WITH MERGER PROJECT

Congregational Christians for Union With Evangelical and Reformed Body.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Congregational Christian Church General Council voted today to proceed with a merger with the Evangelical and Reformed Church. The council's 929 voting delegates favored the union 757 to 172.

The two denominations have a membership of nearly 2,000,000 persons. The combined churches would be known as the United Church of Christ.

Opponents of the merger had attempted to block the union on the ground the council had no authority to act. This move was beaten by a decisive vote yesterday.

The Rev. James W. Fifield Jr. of Los Angeles, a leader of the anti-merger group, said a meeting would be held later today to discuss steps to be taken by congregations opposing the union. He said legal action might be considered.

Today's vote came on a recommendation by the church's commission on inter-church unity that the council declare a sufficient percentage of churches in the denomination had approved the plan, and that consummation of the union was warranted.

When the general council voted 1000 to 12 in Oberlin, O., last June in favor of the merger, it decided to seek confirmation from 75 per cent of its churches by Jan. 1. Last June the percentage was 65.5, and by Jan. 1 it was between 72 and 73 per cent. The current special meeting of the council was held to determine whether to proceed without waiting for the full 75 per cent.

The council also approved today, by a vote of 652 to 277, a resolution asking "the widest support and adherence" of all of its churches to the new church.

It declared the council recognizes "the possibility of various types of relationship to the United Church of Christ," so that each local church, whether approving the basis of union or not, "may be free to maintain or establish such relationships to its association, conference, and to the general synod, as may be mutually agreeable."

Mr. Barry was president of the company, which was founded in 1902, for 30 years. Besides Mrs. George, he is survived by another daughter, Mrs. Charles A. Lieber, and a son, James Barry Jr. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

WOMEN VOTERS' LEAGUE INDORSES NEW ZONING BILL

Action Announced at Last of 6 Public Hearings on Proposed Measure by Committee.

Indorsement of the proposed new zoning ordinance by the League of Women Voters was announced last night at the concluding session of a series of six public hearings on the proposed measure.

The meeting was conducted by the zoning committee of the City Plan Commission at Scullin School, 4160 North Kingshighway, to hear objections and recommendations by residents of the First, Twentieth, Twenty-second and Twenty-seventh Wards. About 50 persons attended.

In urging popular support of the proposed ordinance, Mrs. Richard Hoffman, vice president of the league, said the new bill would not only afford protection to the home owner, but would also provide for the expansion of both commerce and industry.

"We do not hold the ordinance is perfect, nor do we believe that every individual or organization can expect all their recommendations to be included in the bill," she said. "However, we have to have the best possible solution for the greatest number and an ordinance which will offer the most advantages to our city. We feel the proposed ordinance answers a definite need."

Mrs. Hoffman pointed out that many home owners have "no feeling" of economic security because the value of their property declines under the present 23-year-old law. One of the reasons for the migration of former residents of the city to St. Louis county is "our outmoded" zoning ordinance, she asserted.

Milton H. Eckhardt, vice president of the General Council on Civic Needs, also announced that organization's approval of the proposed law. He said the ordinance would "greatly benefit" the city.

The five-member committee heard recommendations from 19 persons and took their requests under advisement. The committee will meet today and tomorrow to consider all the recommendations it has received at the public hearings and report to the commission within the next few days.

Most of the petitioners asked the committee to retain classifications established by the present ordinance.

This word, thank goodness, is not Brooklynese for unlawful homicide. Of unknown origin, it simply means "bother" or "worry." Billikens Shoot for 15th Victory Against L.I.U. Blackbirds Tonight

Ed Hickey Ready to Use Back Door Again

By Robert Morrison

St. Louis University's Billikens, welcome at most front doors in the basketball world, are not averse to going around to the back door when it's necessary. If it is required they'll do it again—as they did before—to beat Long Island University when the teams meet in a r turn game tonight at Kiel Auditorium.

"Going around to the backdoor" is the way Coach Eddie Hickey describes the playing maneuver that worked rather well against Long Island's zone defense nearly four weeks ago at Madison Square Garden. There the Bills continued their New York victory march in a 58-47 defeat of the Blackbirds.

In hopes of extending their present 14-1 record, the Billikens may have to try the back door again if Clair Bee, famous L.I.U. coach, presents his 1-3-1 zone.

That Back Door Method.

On the earlier occasion the St. Louis method was to concentrate a threatening attack on one side of the court near the goal, thus drawing toward the side the bulk of the L.I.U. defense under the basket. Then a Billiken would break out into the open on the opposite side to try to get a clear shot.

In the first game Joe Ossola was the fair-haired boy who got the field goals while Easy Ed Macauley concentrated on passing and handoffs that helped to overcome the tall and rugged opposition.

This time Long Island comes to St. Louis on a rare seven-game cross-country road venture, on which this is the sixth stop. Defeat last night by the Oklahoma Aggies, 55-53, brought the Blackbirds' trip record to three victories and two setbacks, and their mark for the season is 14-9.

While the Bee Birds' record has been spotty, it is significant to note that they have held St. Louis to a relatively close margin. The Aggie defeat for the Bills and victories by one point over Drake, two over Kentucky and six over Kansas State were the only closer games in the St. Louis season thus far.

Perhaps of as much interest as his team, Coach Bee has an 88 per cent winning average since he went to L.I.U. in 1930. He has produced four All-America players and two N.I.T. championship teams and is the originator of the 1-3-1 zone and the three-second rule—it says in the L.I.U. publicity book.

To Bee or Not to Bee.

To a new acquaintance Bee may give the faint impression of being a Shakespearean actor. The impression has some foundation, for—it says in the same book—"accomplished raconteur Bee occasionally feels he missed his calling as a coach and should have devoted himself to acting."

Hasty parenthetical addition is that "this idea lasts only through the preliminary practice sessions and quickly disappears the night of the first game."

Tonight's game will be the first of three straight at Kiel Auditorium, with Notre Dame here next Saturday and Ohio State the following Monday. In the usual 7 p.m. preliminary tonight the Billiken freshmen will oppose Scott Air Field.

Ben Hogan Suffered No Serious Injury to Back, Doctor Says

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 5 (AP)—Ben Hogan, the mighty mite of the links, doesn't have a serious back injury his doctor said yesterday.

The statement came from Dr. Davis Cameron, one of the medical men treating the golf champion for assorted other injuries suffered in an auto-bus collision.

Earlier it had been feared Hogan might even have a broken back. But the doctor said there was no fracture.

A bulletin said Hogan should get well rapidly and his injuries should be fully healed in about two months. He is expected to be able to leave an El Paso hospital for his Fort Worth (Tex.) home in about two weeks.

Miss Geekie Takes Lead in Midwest Fancy Skating Meet

CLEVELAND, Feb. 5—Helen Geekie, 19-year-old St. Louis girl and Marlyn Thomsen of St. Paul, showed the way into the finals of the Midwestern fancy skating championships here today.

Miss Geekie held a slight margin over Margaret Ann Graham of Tulsa, Okla. in the senior women's division following completion of the figure skating, which counts 60 per cent in the title ratings. Another 40 per cent will be added in today's free skating events.

Slavka Kahout of Chicago, was third and Faris Nourse, also of Chicago, was fourth. Janet Gerhauser of St. Paul was fifth and Janet Olson of Chicago, sixth.

Thomsen held a good lead in the senior men's division. He was followed by Charles Brinkman and Barry Gorman, both of Colorado Springs, Colo., and by John Nightingale, of St. Paul.

Margaret Trenkamp of Cleveland won the juvenile women's free skating title. Mimi Herman of St. Louis was second and Marilyn Wright of Cleveland took third place.

The novice men's free skating title was won by Gary Kepler of Akron, O., William Nichols of St. Paul was second, Don Cooper of Colorado Springs, third and Joe Nook Jr., of Cleveland was fourth.

Flyers Tackle Bears; Narrow Lead to Protect

The St. Louis Flyers will be out to protect, or possibly increase, a slender three-point lead in the Western Division of the American Hockey League tonight as they play host to the Hershey Bears at The Arena.

While the Flyers are entertaining the Bears the other teams in the Western Division will be battling one another, with Buffalo playing at Cleveland and Indianapolis at Pittsburgh.

The Bears have dropped two games to the Flyers to date, one here and the other in Hershey. However, they start a 6-game trip against the Flyers with a record of having won four out of their last five games, and in their last eleven games they have dropped only four.

In second place in the Eastern Division, with an eight point advantage over the third place club, the Bears appear certain to win runner-up honors in their division.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 5 (UP)—Walter Ward and Steve Nagy, Cleveland, led a field of eight teams today in the finals of the national two-man match game bowling tournament.

The tournament's early pace-setters, Johnny Dayon and Stan Slomenski, Newark, N. J., dropped back to second place with a 12,690 total. Joe Norris and Joe Wilman, Chicago, took third place with 12,653.

A Los Angeles duo, Ray Bade and Hank Lauman, came back strong in the last two games to capture fourth place with a 12,498 total. They were followed by Frank Serpico and Joe Ostroski, Philadelphia, with 12,490.

Charles Johnson and Gazz Castellano, New York, took sixth place with 12,469, followed by Chicago's Ned Day and Buddy Bomar, who had 12,439.

Barbara Scott Takes Chicago by Storm in Skating Exhibition

CHICAGO, Feb. 5 (UP)—Barbara Ann Scott, Canada's No. 1 ambassadress of good will, captured Chicago last night with the same grace that brought her the 1948 Olympic figure skating crown.

"Best ever," was the comment of the sports writers. Theater critics agreed that the pretty Ottawa (Ont.) miss brought a "new, refreshing personality," to the entertainment world.

Miss Scott made the tiny 25x20 foot patch of ice upon which she worked seem a great lake as she whirled and pirouetted effortlessly.

The audience confirmed the critics' opinions by calling for repeated encores.

Back stage, Miss Scott said she was "grateful to the American audiences which have been so kind to me."

Dawson Stops Docusen; Wants Williams Next

CHICAGO, Feb. 5 (AP)—Freddie Dawson says he now would like to meet Ike Williams for the lightweight championship.

At the same time Chicago fight promoters Jack Begun and Irving Schoenwald are trying to get him a match with Sugar Ray Robinson for the welterweight title.

Dawson, 25-year-old Chicago slugger who has been boxing as pro and amateur a dozen years, has hit the big time.

He jumped into the No. 1 contender's spot of both the light and welterweight divisions last night by scoring a surprising sixth-round technical knockout over rugged Bernard Docusen of New Orleans.

Docusen, the little Filipino stylist who carried Robinson the 15-round distance in Chicago last summer, was stopped by Dawson's belting rights and lefts. It was his first t.k.o. during 63 fights in a sparkling four-year ring career.

Dawson, an underdog in the betting, gave his 22-year-old foe a terrific beating in the fourth round, sending him reeling into the ropes. But the dogged Docusen straightened out to exchange blows with Dawson in the fifth and kept the crowd of 10,166 in Chicago Stadium cheering.

After two minutes of the sixth round, Dawson unloosed a sizzling two-fisted attack forcing Docusen to retreat. Then he caught him, dropping him for a nine count with a left to the chin. Docusen struggled up and Dawson charged in for the kill. Then Referee Bernard Weissman ended the one-side fight.

Dawson, scoring his ninth straight and most impressive victory, weighed 142½ to his opponent's 143. Eager for a crack at Williams's lightweight crown, Dawson insists he can easily make the 135-pound limit.

Mangrum and Riegel in Tie For Top Spot

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 5 (AP) — Twenty-one golfers are bunched within six strokes of a pair of leaders today at the start of the third round of the $10,000 Tucson open.

Lloyd Mangrum, Chicago, the pro, and Skee Riegel, Tulsa, Okla., the amateur, are in front. They have 36-hole totals of 130 because they remained unperturbed when key putts stopped on the rim.

The pro missed a two and a half footer. The amateur shrugged off an inch miss on the 18th. If either had dropped the men would have equaled the 36-hole record of 129 for the 6500-yard, par 70 El Rio Country Club layout.

The field was cut to 94 today. Forty-one of them have bettered par for 36 holes.

One of the youngest pros is a scant stroke behind. Fred Hawkins, Antioch, Ill., 25, seeks his first win since starting the circuit a year ago. "I'm playing pretty well," he admitted as he looked back over sub-par rounds of 66 and 65.

Jim Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., of the golfing Turnesas, and amateur Frank Stranahan, Toledo, have each clicked two rounds of 66 each. Grouped with them at 132 is the veteran Johnny Bulla, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Jimmy Demaret, Ojai, Calif., is only six strokes behind Mangrum and Riegel. So is John Palmer, Badin, N. C.

Mrs. Koen Sets New Australian Record For Hurdles Event

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 5 (AP)—Fanny Blankers Koen of Holland, set a new Australian record of 11.4 seconds for the 80-meters hurdles today, shortly after she was beaten by a 17-year-old school girl in the 100-yard dash.

Competing in the new South Wales championships, Fanny clipped one-tenth of a second off the Australian hurdle mark she set last week in Perth.

Earlier Fanny lost the 100-yard sprint by two yards to Marjorie Jackson who covered the distance in 11.8 seconds. Fanny, who ran with a bandage on the knee she injured last week, said "My leg was cramped and pained me, but that little girl is marvelous to run in such good time."

Sacramento Joins In Protest Against Major Raids on Kids; Braves Allegedly Run Boy Team

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 5 (AP)—Everybody was in the act, as the San Francisco Seals got down to cases today in the wrangle over asserted major league "tampering" with promising high school baseball talent.

Seals Vice President Charles J. Graham said he had proof the Boston Braves had violated baseball law. Sacramento, also in the Pacific Coast League, joined Graham's general blast against major league tactics.

Branch Rickey Jr., assistant general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers who was scolded by Graham yesterday, disclaimed any guilt. Said Rickey in New York: "What a lot of baloney."

Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler seemed likely to get an earful next. Graham said he would demand a formal investigation by Chandler's office.

Cites Case to the Point.

The Seals executive said his proof consisted of circumstance surrounding the signing by Marshall of Wally Jackson, shortstop who graduated from a San Francisco high school Feb. 1.

"We have a box score showing that he (Jackson) played for the Bayside Braves (San Francisco semi-pro team) Jan. 9," Graham asserted. He added he had a Bayside Braves roster showing Marshall listed as the manager and declared:

"We insist the Braves were the sponsor of that club.

"It is more than evident that Jackson not only was propositioned but that actually he was in a tryout phase as a shortstop for Marshall's team. This is in direct violation of the rule that prohibits a team in organized baseball from negotiating with any youngster until the day after he has graduated from high school."

Marshall denied the Boston club was sponsoring the Bayside Braves. But he told reporters his organization was discontinuing all semi-pro activity in this section.

"I have been handling semi-pro clubs on my own," he explained. "I merely asked the Boston Braves for some uniforms."

Marshall said he hadn't talked contract with Jackson before the young player was graduated from high school and added:

"If I have violated any law it is not my fault.

"There are plenty of other operatives around here working the same way. Maybe some other toes will be stepped upon along with mine."

At Sacramento, Victor A. (Cookie) Devincenzi, business manager of the Sacramento Solons, supported Graham.

"The big league clubs are using 'bird dog' talent hunters right here in our own territory by sponsoring ball clubs," he said.

"In reality they use the local teams as a form of tryout camp in violation of baseball law."

He said teams in the Sacramento Winter League were sponsored directly or indirectly by big league clubs.

Rickey, denying a claim by Graham yesterday that he had illegally approached a San Francisco high school player, declared:

"Graham is full of sour grapes because we signed the two best boys on the West Coast."

He referred to Gino Cimoli, an outfielder, and Wayne Belardi, first baseman, both from Santa Clara.

"If the commissioner wants to stop the practice of big league teams running 'rookie clubs' he's going to have a lot of fun," young Rickey declared. "Everybody does it and there's no rule against it."

"The way it's worked is that: The big league club supplies the semi-pro team with uniforms and balls, and pays the manager, say $50 a month for incidental expenses."

Crane Equals World Record In Cue Event

CHICAGO, Feb. 5 (AP)—Irving Crane, former world's pocket billiard champion, began his bid to annex the 1949 national crown last night by matching a world record in his opening match with Joe Diehl of Rockford, Ill.

As the national meet opened, the Binghamton, N.Y., veteran shut out Diehl 125-0 in two innings, scoring a 62 in his first frame and 63 in the second. The shutout feat equaled one recorded by Ralph Greenleaf in 1929.

In the three-cushion meet running simultaneously, first round winners were Jaun Navarra, Buenos Aires; Miguel Marquez, Mexico City; Danny McGoorty, Los Angeles, and Tiff Denton, Kansas City, Mo.

Pied Pipers of Hamline Make It 15 in Row

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (UP)—Vern Mikkelson, regarded as a "prize package" by most professional basketball coaches, still was guiding Hamline along the main line to an undefeated season today.

Hamline the nation's only perfect record club among the major college quintets, gained victory No. 15 last night by trampling Concordia College of Moorhead, Minn., 71 to 43. Mikkelson, as usual, was the main siege gun.

The lofty center, deemed as "certain pro material" by the men in the play-for-play ranks, played a little more than half the game but still managed to sink 21 points.

The Pied Pipers from St. Paul, Minn., surged to an 18 to 8 lead in the first nine minutes. Coach Joe Hutton benched Mikkelson and his varsity mates, but the reserves continued to lay it on, rolling to a 44 to 27 margin at halftime.

C. C. N. Y. was the only one of New York's three touring teams to win last night, beating Stanford, 67 to 57, at the Cow Palace in San Francisco. New York University was surprised by Duke, 73 to 44, at Durham, N.C., while Long Island University fell before the Oklahoma Aggies, 55 to 33, at Stillwater, Okla.

Duke, after taking a 32 to 30 lead at halftime, stopped N.Y.U.'s fast break completely in the second half and rolled home an easy victor before a wild-cheering crowd at Durham, N.C.

Long Island University never had a chance against the Aggie ballhawks at Stillwater, Okla. The Aggies led 23 to 17 at intermission and were never threatened after forward J. L. Parks hit with three quick baskets as the second half opened.

Elsewhere last night, St. Francis flattened Seton Hall, 69 to 58; Tennessee tripped Georgia, 77 to 51; Southern Methodist led all the way in licking Texas Christian, 47 to 36; Texas bumped Sam Houston College, 42 to 37; Oklahoma nipped Wichita, 40 to 39; Southern California edged San Francisco, 41 to 39; Wyoming beat Denver, 44 to 34; California whipped Santa Clara, 58 to 40; Oregon pounded Washington 65 to 58.

30 Points for Kahok Ace

Top Teams Triumph in High Play

District high school basketball players had the shootin' eyes wide open in last night's games. This was especially true in the Southwest Illinois Conference, where a total of 299 points were tallied in the three games. That's an average of just one point under 100 a contest.

The conference also supplied the leading individual scorer in Norm Schaulat of Collinsville's Kahoks, who netted 30 points on 13 field goals and four free throws.

In the 21 games played in the district, there were 1698 points, an average of better than 80 a contest. Suburban leaguers scored 390 points in five games; the Prep Leaguers 149 in two; there were 192 in two South County games; 158 in two in the North country and 510 in the other seven battles.

League leaders held their positions in the Southwestern, Suburban, South County and Prep circuits. Collinsville drubbed East St. Louis, 71-38 for its seventh consecutive loop victory; Normandy ran its Suburban mark to 6-1 with a 43-37 victory over Kirkwood; St. Louis U. High made it 6-0 in the Prep, beating Central Catholic, 43-31 and Bayless gained its seventh straight South County victory, drubbing Hancock, 60-44.

Trailing Schaulat in individual scoring were: Gerken, Jennings, 26; Grandcolas, Belleville, 19; Stoneman, Webster, 18; Whitehead, Hancock, 18; Belzer, Bayless, 18; Glenn, Valley Park, 18; Reynolds, Bayless, 17; Wade, Douglass, 17; Dillard, Normandy, 16; Sheehan, St. Louis U. High, 16; Scott, Vashon, 16; Hanpeter, Country Day, 16; Eaves, East St. Louis, 15; D. Cook, Festus, 15; Glosier, St. Peters, 15. Crittendon, Lovejoy, tossed in 10 free throws.

Cleveland High can clinch the city league championship tonight with a victory over Central, in the game starting at 6:30 p.m. at the St. Louis U. gymnasium. In other contests, McKinley tackles Hadley and Roosevelt opposes Soldan-Blewett.

BURGMAN FLOWN TO U.S. TO FACE TREASON CHARGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Herbert John Burgman, a Minnesotian who worked for the United States Embassy in Germany for 20 years, was in a District of Columbia jail today, awaiting a hearing on treason charges.

Penniless after supporting himself at odd jobs in Berlin for months, Burgman arrived here last night in a military plane. He is charged with broadcasting Nazi radio propaganda during the war.

The balding, 52-year-old former embassy clerk had little to say as he was led handcuffed from a National Airport hearing room, where a United States commissioner had explained his rights as an American citizen.

"You are familiar with American legal procedure, aren't you?" the commissioner, Cyril Lawrence, said. Burgman shook his head and replied, "No, I believe not."

Appears Without Counsel.

Since he had no attorney, Burgman was not required to enter a plea to the charge of treason, based on the Justice Department accusation that he voluntarily remained in Germany during World War II, broadcast Nazi propaganda, and "gave aid and comfort to the enemy."

At the suggestion of government attorneys, the commissioner's preliminary hearing was continued until Feb. 25. The Government representatives said they understood Burgman had relatives in Minnesota who would probably supply legal counsel. Lawrence said that meanwhile he was without authority to grant bail on a charge carrying a possible death penalty, and advised Burgman he would be held in jail here pending grand jury action.

Charges Against Burgman.

Burgman a native of Hokah, Minn., was chief clerk and statistician for the United States military attache in the Berlin Embassy from 1921 to 1941. He was married in Germany and has a grown son there.

The Justice Department has asserted that he refused repatriation to his own country when the war broke out and that he went to work instead for the German radio, operating a secret transmitter beamed to America called "Station D-E-B-U-N-K," the station of all free Americans." The department has said that its broadcasts consisted "mainly of completely fictitious news reports and commentaries." Burgman is alleged to have used the name "Joe Scanlon" in the broadcasts.

Two other Americans, Douglas Chandler and Robert H. Best, have been tried and sentenced to life imprisonment on similar charges. A third, Miss Mildred E. Gillars — known to American soldiers who heard her wartime broadcasts as "Axis Sally" — is now on trial here for treason.

INJURED WHEN AUTO HITS TELEPHONE POLE IN COUNTY

Norman Hemmer, 3454 St. Joachim lane, St. Ann, suffered head injuries last night when an automobile in which he was riding struck a telephone pole on Warson road north of Lackland road, St. Louis county. He was taken to St. Louis County Hospital.

He was riding in an auto being driven north in Warson by Robert McCorkell, 2919 Hood avenue, Overland. McCorkell told deputy sheriffs an automobile ahead of his "struck something," and that he was unable to stop, swerved and struck the pole.

The driver of the first auto, Caspar Scuderi, 2115 Warson road, told deputies he was blinded by the lights of a southbound bus as it rounded a curve. Scuderi said his car swerved to the shoulder of the road and the rear portion of it grazed the pole. The bus did not stop, he said.

Scuderi and McCorkell were treated at St. Louis County Hospital for cuts and bruises.

GETS 18 MONTHS FOR ILLEGAL EXPORT OF BOMBERS FROM U.S.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 5 (UP)—George T. Winters, 35 years old, was under sentence today of 18 months in prison and $5000 fine for illegal exportation of three Flying Fortress bombers to Czechoslovakia last June.

He was sentenced yesterday in United States District Court by Judge Alfred D. Barksdale, who termed the offense "too grave and too widespread (in its consequences) to justify probation." The judge also refused to let Winters's plea be changed to one of not guilty.

Winters, Miami and Puerto Rico business man, was given until Feb. 15 to wind up his personal affairs. He is one of eight men under indictment in the case, but only two others are in custody. The bombers were alleged to have been flown from Miami to Czechoslovakia, and were reported to have gone from there to Palestine for war flying.

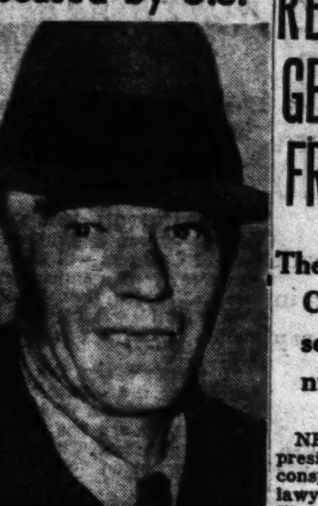

TAVERN OPERATOR FINED $50 ON SLOT MACHINE CHARGE

Elmer Zemmerle, operator of a 3.2 beer tavern on Telegraph road near Baumgartner road in Lemay, was fined $50 today when he pleaded guilty of permitting a slot machine in his tavern last July 7.

Zemmerle had appealed from a conviction on the charge of permitting a gaming device in the tavern before Magistrate Taylor W. Strubinger who sentenced him to 60 days in jail and fined him $300. The fine today was assessed by Circuit Judge Amandus Brackman on the recommendation of Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Hugh Elliott who pointed out there had been no previous offense.

After Zemmerle's arrest by Deputy Sheriffs Harry Newbold and Henry Krueger, the tavern operator was taken before the State Liquor Supervisor who suspended his 3.2 beer license for 21 days. The slot machine, a console type, was confiscated by the sheriff's office.

HUSBAND TERMED HER INSANE, SAYS BARRICADED WIFE

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (UP)—Mrs. Edith Maria Meuss Lord, 41-year-old socialite who has converted her midtown apartment into a fortress where armed guards check all visitors closely, said today her husband told his friends she was insane.

The new charges were made in a petition filed in supreme court by Mrs. Lord, who charged her husband, Robert P. Lord, with infidelities with three women.

In her petition, Mrs. Lord asked for a referee to hear depositions from Mr. and Mrs. Edward Greer, to whom Lord allegedly reported on his wife's sanity. Greer is a business partner of Lord's.

Mrs. Lord said her husband told the Greers he had "a great tragic secret I can no longer keep to myself . . ."

"The tragic secret," the petition said, "was that I, his wife, was insane. He told them that he had kept this terrible secret to himself all these years, that he had had me in innumerable institutions and had drained himself financially to pay bills for psychiatrists and mental institutions."

Furthermore, the petition said, he told them his wife's condition made it impossible to consummate their marriage, thus causing him to turn to other women.

Mrs. Lord's petition also said Lord told his friends he really loved one of the women with whom he allegedly was having an affair. One of the other two is a former model. According to Mrs. Lord's charges, the former model bore her husband a son five years ago.

The Lords broke up last September when he locked her out of their apartment and installed armed guards to see that she stayed out.

She seized the apartment 11 weeks ago when private detectives hired by her kicked out Lord's forces. Since that time she has installed bars over the windows and floodlights in the rear courtyards, and has kept six armed guards on 24-hour duty guarding against a possible counter-attack by her husband's forces.

Police inspected the apartment yesterday to check up on the gun permits of the guards. After examining the place thoroughly, they ruled that everything was legal and Mrs. Lord could maintain her pillbox in midtown Manhattan as long as she wished.

NO POLICE BOARD ACTION ON RESIGNATION ISSUE

The three members of the police board remaining after the resignation of President H. Sam Priest met yesterday but took no action to break the deadlock existing on whether they would resign to permit Gov. Forrest Smith to name a new board.

After the Governor said he had selected a new four-man board, to be appointed "as soon as the opportunity presents itself," Thomas H. Cobbs, Ben L. Liberman and Francis L. George, the remaining members, notified the Governor they would resign any time he requested them to do so. The Governor, however, took the position he could not request their resignations. This means the three members may continue to serve until their terms expire on June 27—after the municipal election, April 5.

The board yesterday heard a plea by David (Toots) Berger, shirt manufacturer whose hobby is the rehabilitation of juvenile offenders, not to abolish the athletic program carried on by the Police Department's juvenile division. The abolition of the program had been recommended by the Social Planning Council of St. Louis and St. Louis County in order to permit police juvenile officers to give more time to their regular duties. No action was taken by the board on the question.

3 COUNTY CITIES WARNED OF NEED TO PAY VOTE COSTS

John Q. Brown, chairman of the St. Louis County Board of Election Commissioners, notified officials of three county cities today that, if the cities do not guarantee to pay expenses of elections scheduled for April 5 and of pre-election canvasses, the board will not incur the expenses necessary to hold the elections.

In a letter to officials of Clayton, Maplewood and Webster Groves, Brown said the board considers a pre-election canvass mandatory in cities of more than 10,000 population, and that the cities are required to reimburse the board for the costs of this canvass and for salaries of judges and clerks in the election. The board has unsuccessfully been attempting to collect similar bills totaling $3074 from four county cities, including Clayton, for previous elections.

If the cities do not guarantee to pay the expenses, Brown said, it is the position of the election board that it has no authority to furnish registration lists. Such lists, he said, are necessary if the elections are to be held.

REDS' LAWYERS GET ULTIMATUM FROM TRIAL JUDGE

They Are Told to Alter Conduct or 'Take Consequences'— Marcantonio on Stand.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—The presiding judge at the Communist conspiracy trial has given defense lawyers this blunt ultimatum: They must alter their conduct, or "take the consequences."

United States District Judge Harold R. Medina told defense attorneys yesterday that they have been trying for three weeks to "provoke me," and that "if you keep that up, there will be a day of reckoning."

It was the thirteenth day of the trial, and the most explosive one yet.

Still engaged in a preliminary move to void the indictment of the 11 Communist leaders by trying to prove that the grand jury that indicted them was chosen by an unfair system, the defense put Representative Vito Marcantonio on the stand.

Gives Little Testimony.

The American Labor party Representative did little testifying. He spent most of the time listening to the arguments between the judge and defense lawyers.

Medina repeatedly reprimanded the defense lawyers, accusing them variously of "willful, persistent" delaying tactics, of trying to "wear me out," of taking "a crack at me," of seeking to "harass me" and of "impertinence."

"I must tell you to stop," the judge said, "or take the consequences."

He did not specify any particular action as a possible disciplinary measure.

The defense, in its attempts to show that poor persons and minorities are excluded from federal juries, sought to question Marcantonio about the intelligence and literacy of the 25,000 Puerto Ricans in his New York City district.

The judge sustained prosecution objections to such questions. This drew protests from defense attorneys.

"In every court proceeding I have attended," the judge said, "when the court makes a ruling the lawyers don't like, they take an exception and go on from there.

"But not so here. Perhaps this is an endeavor to wear me out when you make arguments as you are doing now. That is not the proper conduct of an attorney. It may wind up by breaking me down. I hope it doesn't. I say to you now, stop it."

Then, one after another, defense attorneys Louis F. McCabe, Harry Sacher and George W. Crockett Jr. rose to protest against the judge's statement, and to assert they had no intention of harassing him.

Marcantonio testified he had visited the homes of persons in his district named on three jury panels, and that one of the veniremen was a toolmaker, the rest executives.

Clock in Defendant's Package Causes Bomb Scare.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (UP)—A "bomb scare" enlivened proceedings at the Communist trial yesterday.

During a recess several of the indicted Communist leaders, their friends and attorneys were talking in a room in the federal courthouse. A small brown package began to tick.

The room was cleared in seconds. Then a guard picked up the package, ripped it open and found an alarm clock which Communist City Councilman Benjamin Davis Jr., Negro defendant, had brought with him to have repaired.

EUROPEAN AUTO EXPOSITION OPENS IN NEW YORK CITY

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—European automobile manufacturers opened their first international exposition yesterday with nearly 100 autos designed as dollar catchers. About two-thirds were British.

The cars fell into three classes—the underslung sporting roadster in flashy design built for speed, the low-priced economy car, and the luxurious high-priced models.

Prices ran from $1317 for a de luxe French Renault to $23,000 for a custom-built British Daimler. The Renault and the Czechoslovak Tatra, the latter not yet on sale in America, have rear engines.

The popular low-priced group at the show were the newly designed Ford Prefect, the Morris Minor, and the Austin Devon and Dorset, all British-made and selling in the $1500-$1800 range, delivered in New York.

STABBED BY PEDESTRIAN WHILE SITTING IN AUTO

Fremont T. Fischer, 3317A Magnolia street, was stabbed in the neck early today by a Negro who reached in an open window of Fischer's automobile, which was stopped for a red traffic signal at Olive street and Compton avenue.

Fischer could give police no reason for the attack. He said he had been drinking in several taverns in the vicinity of Olive and Sarah streets. When they closed he started home and was attacked while en route.

Following the stabbing, Fischer went to his office at the Bailey-Fischer Printing Co., 1510A Pine street, and telephoned to his wife, Esther, who was at home. She called police, who took him to City Hospital. Fischer is secretary of the printing firm.

CAUGHT STEALING DIMES CAN

Thomas Rogers, a Negro, who gave his address as in the 2800 block of Washington boulevard, was arrested at Union Station yesterday when several persons and two police officers saw him take a March of Dimes container from the counter of the Western Union telegraph booth. He had put it under his coat and started to leave when arrested, police said.

Police said Rogers, who admitted the theft, said he did not know why he took it. He was charged with petit larceny. The container had $6.04 in it.

SMALL FIRE AT CITY HOSPITAL

Six fire companies answered a call to City Hospital early today when a small fire was discovered in a trash chute. Miss Irene Miller, a nurse in the seventh-floor maternity ward, noticed smoke coming from the chute and called the Fire Department.

No one was evacuated from the hospital and there was no damage.

ADVANCE BY MUTUAL BANK

The Mutual Bank & Trust Co., with deposits of $35,675,447 on Dec. 31, advanced 56 places in its standing among the country's larger banks in 1948. This was reported by the Daily American Banker, trade publication, which said the St. Louis bank now ranks 448th among the 500 largest banks.

GUESTS FLEE FIRE IN TWO FLOORS OF HOTEL IN QUINCY

Two Deaf-Mutes Climb Down 100-Foot Ladder —4 Persons Sent to Hospital.

QUINCY, Ill., Feb. 5 (UP)—Twenty-five guests fled their rooms or were rescued when the top two floors of the Tremont hotel burned early today.

The only person who suffered injury of any consequence was E. L. Cottrell, 72 years old, in whose room the fire reportedly started when a kerosene stove exploded.

Cottrell suffered burns about the hands when he fell on the stove while getting out of the room. He was sent to a hospital, as were three other guests who suffered from shock and exposure.

During the height of the blaze, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kirkman, deaf mutes, climbed down a 100-foot ladder. Mrs. Kirkman, who is almost blind, became confused on the ladder and had to be carried down by Assistant Fire Chief Lloyd Boden.

The blaze was confined to the top half of the four-story building and firemen had it under control after about an hour and a half. There was extensive water damage to the lower floors.

The old Tremont Hotel, situated at the present site, was destroyed by fire in 1904. Two persons died in that blaze. The roof of the newer building was torn off April 12, 1945, by a tornado.

PINCH OF WESTERN BLOCKADE HURTS REICH SOVIET ZONE

Cutting Off Truck Traffic Called 'Answer' to Stalin Peace Move by Berliner Zeitung.

By THOMAS A. REEDY

BERLIN, Feb. 5 (AP)—A tightening of the western allies' counterblockade of Soviet occupied Germany brought a bleat today from a Russian-licensed newspaper that this was "the Anglo-American answer to Stalin's peace initiative."

The Berliner Zeitung, which carried the headline, also predicted further hardships now would be inflicted on the already hard-pressed Russian occupation zone. A British information survey said the Soviet zone is in a bad way economically and probably will get worse.

Berlin's anti-Communists have indorsed the United States-British action, which prohibited any highway freight traffic between western Europe and the Soviet zone to cross the United States and British zones. Rail traffic has been shut off since last fall as a counter move to the Soviet blockade of Berlin.

At Wiesbaden, German border police headquarters announced police and work squads began digging ditches across roads leading from the American into the Soviet zone to stem smuggling of goods into the Russian zone and to make the highway freight blockade effective.

Soviet Zone Pact With Danes.

Meanwhile, the Soviet official press announced conclusion of a trade agreement between the Russian zone and Denmark providing for an exchange of goods worth 18,000,000 Danish kroner from each side. These deliveries will now have to be made by sea to Russian zone Baltic ports. The Russian zone already has trade agreements with Sweden and Norway, which also can ship across the Baltic.

The allied counter blockade has cut severely into eastern Germany's coal, iron, steel, textile and machine tool industries, today's British report said. The Soviets' frequent calls for "more work" from the Germans simply results in more products of inferior quality, the survey found. In a detailed analysis, the British report exploded Russian claims of a successful "two-year-plan" for eastern Germany. "It exists only on paper," said the report.

The Soviet claim that brown coal production was 9 per cent above 1947 in 1948 is a myth, the British said. (Brown coal is a low grade fuel.)

"So far this industry has existed mainly on brown coal reserves laid open before the end of the war," the survey added. "The work cannot be continued on the scale planned because the necessary equipment has been sucked away to the east. New mines cannot be opened until conveying equipment can be got from the (British-American) bizone. It will not get through the counter blockade."

Effect on Other Industries.

The Western barriers also have eaten into iron and steel, slashing output by one-third of the goal because badly needed equipment on order in the bizone was not delivered.

Also on order in Bizonia are parts for rolling mills to the extent of 10 million marks or more. Without them, the British said, the eastern rolling mills might as well close down.

Eastern satellite countries which could fill the gap are refusing to do so, the survey said, because they are demanding what esatern Germany hasn't got — capital equipment or hard currency.

Soviet statistics conceal this situation from the Germans by listing output in terms of money to show an increase. However, the British said, the Russians merely raised prices to get at that conclusion.

West German State Delayed.

A high American military government official said last night the projected west German federal state cannot be set up before July 1 at the earliest—two months after the original target date.

The delay does not represent any concession to Prime Minister Stalin's demand that the western allies postpone or scrap plans for a separate western government in order to get the Berlin blockade lifted. It stems from disagreements among Britain, France and the United States.

(Diplomatic sources in Washington said the United States has laid down new and more rigid terms for settlement of Russian-western dispute over Berlin currency. These sources said the terms are stated in a United States proposal submitted to a group of United Nations experts. They provide for continued circulation of western marks in the western sector of the city, pending the outcome of efforts to restore four-power rule. Russian marks would continue to circulate in the Soviet sector.)

AKRON, O., Feb. 5 (AP)—Seventy-five persons with incurable diseases have organized their own club here.

They have not selected a name yet, but through association with others in the same plight, they hope to gain inspiration and courage.

Most of them are suffering from two muscular ailments, multiple sclerosis and muscular dystrophy. They went in wheel chairs and on stretcher and crutches to their first meeting. Several physicians and nurses discussed various illnesses and offered their help.

BARUCH SAYS ONLY CHOICE IS TO PUSH ATOMIC WEAPONS

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—Bernard M. Baruch, accusing the Soviet Union of blocking atomic energy controls, says this country has "no choice but to further the development of atomic weapons."

The American elder statesman spoke yesterday at the convention of the New York City Federation of Women's Clubs.

"Never in world history was there a more generous offer than the American proposals for the control of atomic energy," Baruch said. "Alone in the possession of all that knowledge, America offered to share everything on the basis of equality with everybody, everywhere, on one condition—that no nation be permitted to employ atomic energy for destructive purposes."

He said the Soviet Government refused to accept this offer.

Baruch accepted the federation's medal of honor on behalf of Dr. Lise Meitner, woman scientist now working in the Nobel Institute in Sweden.

THOUSANDS STRANDED BY STORM IN SIERRAS

Motorists, Skiers Caught by Blizzard in California Mountains—Roads Blocked.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 5 (AP)—Thousands of motorists and skiers were stranded as a blizzard raged through the high Sierras last night.

Tons of snow were dumped on United States Highway 40, blocking the route to Nevada for the first time in many winters. Winds at Donner summit reached a velocity of 75 miles per hour, whipping the snow before them.

Capt. George Peterkin of the highway patrol estimated at least "two to three thousand" skiers were stranded in the area.

Owners of mountain lodges and hotels said tourists and skiers were sleeping "on couches, floors, any place they can find."

A distance of about 30 miles of Highway 40, from Baxter's Camp to Donner grade, was closed for about five hours.

The State Highway Patrol said there will be no parking place on the summit throughout the entire weekend, putting a crimp in the plans of skiers.

More than a foot of snow fell in a six-hour period at the summit, which is above the 7200-foot level. The snow pack was already 87 inches deep. Temperature was 15 degrees and visibility described as "zero-zero."

East of the summit the storm swept at 55 miles an hour through Truckee and Highway 395 was closed three miles south of Reno on the Los Angeles route.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (UP)—A bill to permit the Government to spend up to $11,000,000 in disasters such as the western blizzards has been agreed on by officials of 13 Government agencies and the Red Cross.

It would give Fleming's agency a $1,000,000 appropriation for immediate use in any emergency. FWA also would be authorized to use up to $10,000,000 in funds appropriated to other Government agencies. Congress would later reimburse these agencies.

Under the bill, emergency work would be authorized only after a state governor requested help and the President proclaimed a disaster of "sufficient magnitude to warrant federal assistance."

PHONE FIRM SEEKS TO BAR INTERFERENCE IN RATE RISE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. asked the State Supreme Court yesterday for a permanent injunction to bar the State Corporation Commission from interfering with a proposed $3,000,000-a-year increase in telephone rates. The petition was in answer to the commission, which temporarily blocked the rate increase two weeks ago by obtaining an emergency restraining order against the company.

At the same time, attorneys for the telephone company asked the court to take additional evidence which might support a claim for a rate increase. The court was asked to fix whatever bond it felt necessary to protect subscribers in case the rate increase does not become permanent.

On Jan. 18, in a hearing on a permanent rate increase in Oklahoma, Southwestern Bell announced it would increase rates effective Jan. 26. It said it acted on the belief a temporary rate increase allowed last summer by the Supreme Court permitted an additional hike without corporation commission approval. The commission disagreed and asked for the restraining order.

Milton Berle Recuperating.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—Comedian Milton Berle leaves today for Florida to recuperate from a virus infection. His secretary said the comedian is "coming along nicely." The infection caused him to cancel all engagements for a month. Berle recently has been appearing on a television show.

AIR POWER ALONE CAN'T WIN A WAR, BRADLEY ASSERTS

'It Is Dangerous to Count on Decisive Knockout in First Round,' Army Chief Says.

BOSTON, Feb. 5 (AP) — Gen. Omar Bradley says the United States would gamble with survival by counting on air power alone to defeat the enemy in another war.

"To survive," he said, "the United States must be prepared instantly to gear its counter-attack to a war of increasing violence, a war of growing intensity, and a war of widening global dimensions."

He told the third national Industry-Army Day Conference last night that at the instant of aggression "the United States must fling the full force of its strategic air offensive against the enemy's heartland."

"But however savage this attack might be," he added, "it is dangerous for us to count on a decisive knockout in the first round, for the concentration of this initial air offensive must diminish as we dip deeper into the stockpile of our atomic bombs."

The Price of Victory.

The Army chief of staff said that he is convinced that if the United States is driven into another war "we shall once more be forced to gain the inevitable victory over our dead bodies—those of our soldiers on the ground."

"If we are to construct air power at the fatal expense of ground and naval arms," he added, "then we may foolishly be forced to desert our allies and forsake our capacity to wage a sustained war."

Gen. J. Lawton Collins, vice chief of staff, said the Army hopes to be able to move whole infantry divisions by air, and fly heavy artillery along with them.

He said in an interview at the conference that "it is the prime concern of the Army to make infantry airborne so that it will be possible to take a standard infantry division and move it by air."

He said the Berlin airlift has taught valuable lessons in mass aircraft handling and maintenance under unusual weather conditions.

Record Steel Capacity.

United States Steel president, Benjamin F. Fairless, told the conference that the nation should have "an all-time record steel-making capacity of 98,000,000 tons by the end of 1950." He said that the steel industry is "determined to do its full share in meeting the needs of the country."

The nation, he added, was built to "the highest rank in world affairs" by "our system of responsible private initiative or American way of life."

"If there be in any quarters a disposition to yield to the enchantment of foreign ideologies, socialism or communism," he added, "let the tempted call the roll of the nations, one by one, appraise their situations and judge the merits of the respective systems by the evidence revealed."

GOES UNDERGROUND IN STUDY OF RAYS IN AIR AND CANCER

The scientist, from Toronto's Banting Institute, will carry on his experiments 2800 feet underground in this northern Ontario mining community.

With him, in cages, are 2000 mice suffering from cancer. Dr. Franks said he had to go hundreds of feet underground to escape the radiations of the atmosphere. The experiment will be continued for several years, if necessary, he said.

KAUFMANN URGES CAREFUL SELECTION OF FREEHOLDERS

Selection of qualified public spirited citizens as members of the Board of Freeholders which will be elected at the city election on April 5 was urged today by Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann. The 13 freeholders will be chosen to draft a new charter for the city government.

"Because the task confronting the freeholders will be an arduous one," the Mayor said, "I urge every citizen to give serious thought to the selection of men and women who are above reproach and who are well qualified through experience and civic mindedness to participate in this important undertaking. I also call on those chosen for the task to accept the responsibility as an opportunity for a lasting community service."

A bill authorizing the election of freeholders to draft a new charter or revise the old one was signed recently by the Mayor. When they have completed their work, their proposal will be submitted to the voters for adoption or rejection. The present charter has been in force since 1914.

BODY FOUND IN HOTEL ROOM

The body of a man who registered under the name of Albert Anderson was found on the floor of his room at the New St. Nicholas Hotel, 5½ South Broadway, last night. A broken sash cord was tied around his neck. The other end of the rope was fastened to an overhead pipe.

James Kassaros, owner of the hotel, called police when he noticed the light had been on in the room for two days. An overturned chair was near the body.

$255 LIQUOR STORE HOLDUP

The People's Liquor Store at 2354 Chouteau avenue, was held up and robbed of $255 by a Negro last night, Manne Goldstein, manager of the store reported to police. The manager and a porter were only ones in the store at the time.

Goldstein said the man entered with a revolver and made them stand facing a wall while he emptied two cash registers.

SOME REPUBLICANS WON'T HEAR DEWEY SPEAK AT DINNER

Congressmen 'Not Boycotting' but 'Not Trying Very Hard to Get There.'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (UP)—Several veteran Republican members of Congress will deliberately stay away from a dinner here next week at which Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York will be the main speaker, it was learned today.

"I wouldn't say the boys are boycotting the dinner," said one House Republican leader. "But it is true they are not trying very hard to get there. They have conveniently made other engagements."

No G.O.P. member would admit publicly that he is intentionally passing up the dinner next Tuesday night. But even Representative George A. Dohdero (Rep.), Michigan, arrangements chairman for the affair, admitted having heard that some Republicans will stay away.

Dewey's speech will be made at a Lincoln Day dinner sponsored by the League of Republican Women for the District of Columbia. Proceeds from the $7.50-a-plate affair will go to finance the league's absenteee voters bureau here.

It has been reported that Dewey will take off the gloves in his speech and blast some of the top G.O.P. members of Congress.

But that isn't the only reason some of the veterans are staying away. For one thing, they say they don't think Dewey defended the Republican-controlled Eightieth Congress as he might have during the 1948 presidential campaign.

And they said they don't like recent reports from Albany, N.Y., to the effect that the Eightieth Congress was too great a cross for Dewey to bear in the campaign. "That's where I draw the line," said one Republican leader in Congress.

MOVE TO ENJOIN FIRM PLANNING TO EVICT 16 TENANTS

KANSAS CITY, Mo, Feb. 5 (UP)—The area rent control office asked for a United States district court injunction yesterday against a landlord who planned to evict 16 tenants.

Carol Berry, attorney for the Kansas City area rent control office, filed petition for the injunction in United States District Court. It named as defendants Sharpe Brothers, contractors, and J. E. Sharpe, president of the concern. The petition charged the Sharpe firm operated rental properties and had issued 60-day eviction notices to 16 tenants.

DES MOINES, Ia., Feb. 5 (UP)—The Des Moines Apartment Owners' Association last night voted against adopting the "Tulsa plan" for eviction of tenants as a protest against rent control.

Before they balloted, the 100 members heard Harry Hansen, a director and counsel for the Property Owners' Association of America, tell them that mass evictions lacked "permanent effect." He said they merely were "a loud protest." Other leaders of the eviction plan, however, said they were going ahead with their plans to take rental property off the market.

BEATEN BODY OF GIRL FOUND ON DUMP IN PENNSYLVANIA

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., Feb. 5 (AP)—Police blamed a sex maniac for the brutal killing of a 15-year-old girl whose battered body was found on a snow-covered dump. Margaret Bankowski, daughter of a millworker, had been missing since Jan. 26. When found, her skull was fractured in many places and her right ear had been torn or slashed away.

"It must have been the work of a sex fiend," State Police Sgt. Thomas E. Jones said yesterday after discovery of the body. "Although preliminary investigation shows no sign of criminal assault we tend to the sex-fiend theory because of the evidence that Margaret put up a terrific struggle with her killer."

The dump where the body was found faces the Ohio river just across from Ambridge. It is 15 miles northwest of Pittsburgh.

Margaret was a high school sophomore. She left home to visit a school friend and hadn't been seen since. Shortly after her disappearance, a bartender told police he refused to serve a girl answering Margaret's description because of her youth. She was accompanied by a man. The bartender said he spotted the girl's picture in a newspaper.

CHANGES PLEA TO GUILTY IN BELLEVILLE BURGLARIES

Stanley E. Veath of Belleville, who had pleaded not guilty to three charges of burglary and larceny, changed his plea to guilty yesterday before Circuit Judge Edward F. Bareis at Belleville. Sentence was deferred and Judge Bareis set a hearing on Veath's application for probation for Feb. 18.

Veath's brother-in-law, Robert G. Baker, heir to one half of the $288,000 estate left by a Belleville stove manufacturer, was sentenced to five years to life in a state penitentiary last Wednesday after pleading guilty of burglary and larceny. Baker was the adopted son of the late George E. Baker and is to receive a share of his estate.

He and Veath were indicted on charges they had broken into several homes in the Belleville area. Baker is 21 years old, Veath, 17.

PETITION FILED IN JENNINGS SEEKS COMMISSION SETUP

A petition requesting a change in the type of government for Jennings to the commission form of administration was filed yesterday by the Taxpayers' Protective Association.

The present administration is composed of a mayor, two councilmen from each of the city's four wards and five other elected officials. Under the commission form of government, voters would elect a mayor and two councilmen-at-large, who would appoint the other officials. Jennings was incorporated as a city of the third class in December 1946.

St. Louis county communities which have adopted the commission form of government include Richmond Heights, Kirkwood, Maplewood and Webster Groves.

SHOPLIFTING 'RING' OF SCHOOL GIRLS IN SPOKANE; 9 ARRESTS

'Nice Youngsters From Fine Families'; Charges May Not Be Pressed.

SPOKANE, Wash., Feb. 5 (UP)—Disclosure of a shoplifting "ring" of high school girls from respectable families was made here today by the juvenile division of the police department. Sgt. E. W. Parsons said nine girls had been arrested and more were expected to be picked up as the investigation progresses.

Three girls told Parsons many high school girls in the city were shoplifting in department stores. The stolen items usually were expensive, consisted mainly of skirts, blouses and phonograph records, Parsons said.

The girls said they took the goods by slipping them between books they carried, shoving them up the sleeves of their coats or wearing them out.

The juvenile officer said his division plans no prosecutions but intends to straighten the matter out by talking to the parents and returning the goods to the stores. Already nearly $100 worth of stolen articles have been recovered, he said.

"They're all nice youngsters," Parsons said. "They come from fine families. We'd rather straighten them out now than press charges."

No boys have been arrested and none is believed involved in the "ring," Parsons said.

(Pictures in Everyday Magazine.)

By RALPH DIGHTON

KODIAK ISLAND, Alaska, Feb. 5 (AP)—Navy "frog men"—members of Underwater Demolition Teams are braving the near-freezing waters of Alaska with the same skill they used in the South Pacific in World War II.

The cold, wet weather chosen for the forthcoming "battle of Kodiak island" means nothing to these rugged young men. They've already swum at the north and south poles—in 28-degree water that froze to slush as they moved through it.

Garbed in rubber suits, the "frog men" have made reconnaissance landings on three ice-rimmed beaches which naval amphibious forces plan to attack. They roll into the water from a boat or submarine, and swim beneath the surface to shore. When they encounter reefs, mines, or man-made obstacles which would damage landing craft, they return to the spot with explosives.

There are few casualties, either from exposure or explosion. Only 3 per cent of the UDT men used in the Pacific during the war were killed or injured. In the invasion of Normandy, however, where they met heavy defense fire, casualties soared to 86 per cent.

Although the Navy lists this as "extra-hazardous duty" and accepts only volunteers for the work, they receive no extra pay. A UDT apprentice seaman, for instance, receives $75 a month. Top UDT pay, that of a lieutenant commander, is $250.

RETIRED POLICE CAPTAIN TO OBSERVE 91ST BIRTHDAY

Retired Police Capt. Robert M. Hanna, onetime commanding officer of the old Mounted District, will celebrate his ninty-first birthday with a quiet family gathering at his home, 3618 Lafayette avenue.

Capt. Hanna joined the police Department in 1882 at the age of 24 and retired in 1930 after 48 years. He was promoted to captain in 1907 and served for a time as commander of the Carondelet and the old Soulard street districts. A year before his retirement he was transferred to the inspectors' office for field duty.

Participating in the quiet celebration will be his wife, Mrs. Emma Hanna, to whom he has been married for 65 years, two daughters, two grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

DREDGE TO WORK ON SANDBAR WHERE 4 BARGES HAVE CAUGHT

A United States Engineer Corps dredge was on its way today to a point in the Mississippi river one-half mile north of Chain of Rocks Bridge to cut a new channel through a sandbar that has grounded four barges in the last week.

Two barges of the Federal Barge Lines towboat, Roosevelt, that stuck on the bar last Tuesday were freed today. Then two barges of the Simpson Oil Co., Charleston, Mo., ran aground.

A representative of the Federal Barge Lines said the bar was formed when a sudden drop in the rivel level permitted sand and mud carried by recent high water to settle too fast for the current to cut through it.

WEST DEMANDS RUSSIA STOP FIGHTER PLANE TARGET FIRING

BERLIN, Feb. 5 (AP) — The three Western Allies in occupied Germany demanded the Russians stop target practice by fighter planes which started today just west of Berlin along a corridor used by the air lift.

Oral protests were lodged with the Russian representative at the Berlin Air Safety Center. The firing, at towed targets, was branded a violation of four-power safety rules.

An American air liaison officer said the Russians took no immediate action to stop the firing after the protest was delivered. The Russians had announced the firing would last five hours.

H. V. CALHOUN A CANDIDATE

H. V. Calhoun, public service director for Radio Station WBND at Belleville, announced yesterday he will be a candidate for mayor of Belleville in the April 5 election. He is the fourth to announce his candidacy. Calhoun retired in 1947 as superintendent of the Belleville grammar school system, after 21 years in that position.

He said he will head a slate of candidates which will include Carl Siegel for city clerk, John W. Courar for treasurer and Adolph Barnickol for chief supervisor and township relief administrator. All are incumbents.

PRICES DROP IN FAST SATURDAY STOCK TRADING

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—A new selling attack walloped the stock market today following Friday's drop. Losses of fractions to as much as 3 points piled up for a wide variety of key issues. Business was unusually fast for Saturday.

Many issues scored new lows for 1948-49, notably in the rail and oil groups. Among them were Standard Oil (N.J.), Texaco Co., Pacific Western Oil, Illinois Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Southern Pacific, and N.Y. Central.

Brokerage quarters reported that the current steep slide in commodity prices has created widespread deflationary psychology in the financial district.

In addition, these sources say, many speculators in commodity futures have been forced to raise considerable sums of money to protect their position. Much of the money is coming from these "emergency" sales of stock.

Reports from Wall Street indicated that buying by group funds and investment trusts was providing the market with a moderately comfortable cushion.

The bulk of trading again was supplied mainly by professional elements, such as traders who usually operate on a short-term basis and make a living on quick turnover. The general public was still on the sidelines.

Yesterday's sudden drop was touched off by an announcement that Creole Petroleum had cut its dividend. The oil industry has coped with huge demand so successfully that an excess of production has forced price cuts and it is feared that similar overproduction may hit other basic industries.

Among the widest losers were United States Steel, National Steel, General Motors, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, J. I. Case, Kennecott Copper, Skelly Oil, St. Louis Southwestern (down 9½ points but an inactive issue), du Pont, United States Gypsum, American Tobacco, Santa Fe and Nickel Plate.

Lower in the curb were Cities Service, Creole Petroleum (off a small fraction), Crosley Motors, Electric Bond & Share, Kaiser-Frazer, Winnipeg Electric, Pancoastal Oil, Niagara Hudson Power, and Pantepec Oil. Bonds turned down with stocks but declines were limited.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP) — The bond market jogged along at a slow pace today with main price shifts to the down side by small fractions.

An advance of more than a point in Maine Central 4½s was an outstanding firm spot. Others a little ahead included Northern Pacific 3s, West Shore 4s and Santa Fe Adjustment 4s.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—Cotton futures tumbled sharply in active dealings today. Prices at one time were down as much as $2.80 a bale before sufficient buying was attracted to halt the decline. Futures closed 95 cents to $1.30 a bale lower than the previous close.

GRAINS CLOSE MIXED AFTER NEW TUMBLE

CHICAGO, Feb. 5 (AP)—Grains today wound up a hectic week by displaying, here and there, some signs of resistance to general selling. Trading was active and the market was nervous. The direction of the market frequently shifted.

At one time all corn, soybeans, rye and lard futures made new seasonal lows, as did July and September wheat. At the lows, all wheat contracts except May were selling under $2. May oats touched its previous low, but did not go under it.

In general, oats showed some underlying strength. Lard provided a contrast with oats. Yesterday lard had held above seasonal lows made earlier in the week, but today it went through that level shortly after the opening.

The market's slump brought a good deal of cash corn out of the country. Bookings were placed at around 150,000 bushels. In the spot market, No. 2 yellow corn sold at $1.23½, which compares with an estimated Government support level here of around $1.56 to $1.58.

Wheat closed ¼@1c higher, corn was ⅝c lower to 1c higher, oats were ⅛@⅞c higher, rye was 4@4½c lower, soybeans were ¼@1c lower, and lard was 32@40c a hundred pounds lower.

All Quieter Socially Along the Potomac

By Elise Morrow

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5

THE capital is in a sort of wistful, queasy, intermittent February mood, with things gradually sliding back to normal after the hysteria of the holidays and the inaugural.

LES BIFFLE

The atmosphere is rather curious here, fairly brisk and confident on Capitol Hill, but a little tentative elsewhere. Senate Secretary Les Biffle is leaving parties much earlier than he usually does, and the Secretary of Agraiculture, Charles Brannan, is upset because one of the political columnists said something nice about him. Secretary Brannan says, in view of the election, that that's the kiss of death, and he wants none of it.

Margaret Truman has been vegetating as much as possible after her inaugural ordeal. Her favorite music when she does go out is the "Kiss Me Kate" score—especially the "Bianca" number. One of her escorts, Marvin Braverman, has adopted a policy of refusing to dance when he goes out for a gay evening, because of all the attention he's been getting as the man-who-foxtrots-with-the-President's-daughter.

NEW YORK MODELS don't have anything on our illustrious cabinet wives, who are spending their free time this week improving their carriage and learning to swivel on a runway—all in preparation for a spectacular and political sort of fashion show next week.

The girls, wearing their own gowns and jewels, are going to model furs at a Valentine Ball, to be given in honor of the President and his family by the American Newspaper Women's Club.

The club picked out some of the best-looking official wives for this performance—the Attorney General's wife, Mary Clark, who is small and rather doll-like; tall, dark-haired Mrs. Clinton P. Anderson, wife of the new Senator from New Mexico and former Secretary of Agriculture; Mrs. John Steelman, the serene and cool blonde wife of the Special Assistant to the President; Mrs. Harold Burton, the white-haired, distinguished wife of the Supreme Court Justice; Mrs. Kenneth Royall, the pretty, peaches-and-cream brunette and wife of the Army Secretary, and stately Mrs. John Nicholas Brown, wife of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air.

THE HAIL AND FAREWELL, or hello and good-by, parties are stock Washington social stand-bys; and usually the number of VIPs coming and going balances pretty well so that, for instance, the Commissioner of Interior Disintegration for Primitiva is being welcomed with glad alcoholic cries while his distinguished colleague, the Minister from Bratislava, is being sent home an exhausted hospital case from all the farewell parties.

This week, though, more dignitaries are going than coming. The parties in honor of the beloved Belts of Cuba are continuing. There seems to be some dispute as to what the retiring Cuban Ambassador, Guillermo Belt, will do when he leaves Washington—go to London, or go into private law practice in his native land—but at this point it doesn't appear that the poor man will be competent to do anything except retire into the Cuban brush and weave baskets. There have been from two to three or more parties every day for these poor folk.

GENERAL ANTHONY McAULIFFE is being thundered off to Tokyo, his new post, in a burst of social glory, and the bustling ambassador from Argentina, entertained at a buffet supper for his departing military attache and Senora de Lucero.

There has been a gradual but definite revolution in Washington's social life during the past few months. The five-to-seven cocktail party, which came into its fullest use during the war, is gradually being supplanted by a cocktail buffet, usually starting at six or later and continuing on through the evening. This is a more pleasant entertainment than the old cocktail party, and it makes more sense, combining the best features of the cocktail party and a dinner.

The Senate Red Cross unit, without its lovely and popular president, Mrs. Arthur Vandenberg, wife of the elder statesman from Michigan, started its first weekly luncheon meetings last week. Mrs. Millard Tydings, wife of the dapper Marylander, presided in Hazel Vandenberg's absence. This group is gay and gossipy and pretty much non-partisan.

Home Early

By Christopher Billopp

WIVES often complain over how late their husbands are in returning home in the evening. They say it would be nice if once in a while, the husbands were to get back early.

And, once in a while, the husbands do. But they do not advise their wives of that in advance. On the contrary, that will be the very day they have told their wives they are going to be quite late.

When husbands do come home early it would be a very happy occasion, if they did not enter the house shouting "Anybody at home?" When they get no answer they feel they have been abandoned and deceived.

So they are in an unhappy frame of mind when their wives return from the next door neighbors' or the corner drugstone, and explain they never dreamed their husbands would be back so soon.

★ ★ ★

THEN THE HUSBANDS will inquire "How about dinner?" They will be very distressed when told that dinner is still from a half hour to an hour off. They will not cheerfully accept the explanation that the wives didn't want the dinner cooked to a crisp. Nor will they see why the wives should have picked this night of all others to have baked potatoes.

★ ★ ★

AFTER THAT it will be as much as the wives can do to persuade husbands not to spoil their appetite by eating cookies and drinking milk. Even if they succeed there is not much fun having a man around who thinks he is starving.

Under the circumstances there is grave danger of things being said that would be better left unsaid and grave likelihood of the shedding of tears. So perhaps, after all, employers are doing a good turn for domestic relations when without sudden exception, they keep husbands' noses to the grindstone until late in the afternoon.

What Am I Saying!

IF you get a gossip wound up, she will always run somebody down. The worst are those who drone on and on and on, like a phonograph that's almost run down, yet won't stop. In fact, the only thing that sounds worse is a pedestrian who's almost run down.

CUTTING ICE FROM HARBOR LIGHT

Navy's 'Frog Men' Train in Icy Alaskan Waters

Wearing special rubber swim suits, "frog men" of the Navy's underwater demolition teams climb aboard floating ice before destroying it as a menace to landing craft of amphibious forces now engaged in cold weather training off the bleak frozen island of Kodiak, Alaska.

Lt. Comdr. William R. McKinney (center), commander of underwater demolition teams in the Pacific, briefing members of a unit gathered around a raft before a reconnaissance assignment in icy landing areas of Kodiak. Without protection of their special suits, men would perish in six to eight minutes in the freezing sub-Arctic water, the Navy said.

ARGENTINE HONOR FOR VAUGHAN

Dr. Jeronimo Remorino (right), Argentine ambassador to the United States, smiles as he displays the Order of the Liberator General San Martin after conferring it on Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, military aide to President Truman. The decoration, awarded at the embassy in Washington on behalf of President Juan Peron, is in recognition of Vaughan's "virtue as a soldier and an American." Man in center is not identified.

NAZI SET FREE Franz von Papen (second from left), Adolf Hitler's ace diplomat, is congratulated by a friend on being set free by a de-Nazification appeal court at Nuernberg, Germany, after serving part of an eight-year sentence. The court reversed his previous conviction as a major Nazi offender and found him guilty of being only an offender, the second category of Nazism. His daughter is at left and his wife is at right.

ST. LOUIS U. GRADUATION

Some of the 403 students of St. Louis University who received degrees today move in a procession across West Pine boulevard to the university gymnasium, where the mid-year exercises were held. The degrees were conferred by the Very Rev. Paul C. Reinert, S. J., president of the institution.

BABY BOY IS 'ANSWER TO A PRAYER'

Mrs. Fred J. Turley, who will be 60 years old in April, and her husband, a 65-year-old Helena (Ark.) barber, admire their sixth child, a five-pound son whose birth Saturday, the mother said, was "the answer to a prayer." The other five children are dead.

G. I. JUDGES AT COURT-MARTIAL

For the first time in United States history, enlisted men are shown as they took their places Tuesday on a military court in Heidelberg, Germany, to try two soldiers on a charge of murder. Two of four sergeants serving with six officers are at right: Ralph A. Bosch, Broadlands, Ill., and Fred A. McFaul, Washington, D.C. (extreme right). Standing (from left) are: Maj. Thomas C. Marmon, defense counsel, and the defendants, Pvt. Oscar B. Gannon, Hanging Rock, O., and Pfc. Andrew D. Byrd, Orlando, Fla. They pleaded not guilty.

Flashes of Life

By the Associated Press.

"My Gun!"

HILLSIDE, N. J.—"Hand me my gun, dear," said William Dubin, "so I can shoot him."

"Britches"?

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — State Senator W. H. Abington called on the Arkansas Senate to give the State Welfare Commission more control over the welfare director.

"Let's make the director subservient to the commission," he shouted, in urging passage of a bill he had introduced. "Let's pass a law that will put britches on that man down there."

Reluctant Doctor.

CHICAGO—Nine times in the last four years Dr. Charles Meyer has been the reluctant reporter of ill tidings to the police.

He reported that his office had been ransacked — for the ninth time.

Two hundred dollars was missing, there was $500 damage to equipment. His safe was ransacked and its knob knocked off.

Dr. Meyer's loss for the four years totals $8000 in cash and $2300 in drugs.

WASHINGTON STATE VETERANS' BONUS VOIDED BY COURT

OLYMPIA, Wash., Feb. 5 (AP)—A $100,000,000 state bonus for Washington veterans of World War II was ruled unconstitutional yesterday by the State Supreme Court.

In a unanimous opinion, the tribunal held the bonus initiative approved by the voters last November was unlawful because:

1. The indebtedness to be incurred is in excess of the $400,000 debt limitation fixed by the State Constitution.

2. Bonds to pay for the bonus would mature in 30 years instead of not more than 20 as provided by the Constitution.

3. The ballot title was not sufficiently broad to make the bonds—if they had been constitutional—a general obligation of the state.

The state bonus would have provided $15 a month for overseas service and $10 a month for stateside service for more than 200,000 veterans.

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

I MARRIED a man from another state who worked in the same office I did. That was two years ago and until our baby was born last summer his family would have nothing to do with me. They would not come to our wedding, said they had made investigation and my family was beneath theirs—I saw the letter though my husband doesn't know it, and cried over it plenty. We have always been a respected family, and my father worked hard to give us all good educations. He and my mother have been very happy, and that is more than my husband's family has, to all accounts.

Suddenly his mother began to write me after the baby came. She wants pictures, she wants to come and visit, wants the baby and me there. I haven't answered a single letter. Don't you think I'm right? My husband says I'm not, wanted me to go there with him at Christmas. Why should I have her in my life now when his mother acted so hateful about me and our marriage? A.

Now that your mother-in-law has come bearing the olive branch, I think you are unwise not to accept her friendly overtures. It may be she is too proud to ask your forgiveness but if you will read between the lines that is what she is trying to do. Your husband's family isn't the only one which has been much opposed to the son marrying a stranger. The mistake lies in not accepting the son's choice, however parents may feel about the situation. I am sure you do not want to be responsible for your husband becoming estranged from his own people, and this it what may happen if you maintain your present attitude. For your husband's sake let bygones be bygones and write his mother a nice, friendly letter today.

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM A GIRL nearly 14. My mother will never allow me to have company. When my girl friends ask to come to my house I have to refuse them. If I get a telephone call Mother always has to know who it is and what it's about. If I so much as mention the name of a boy who isn't related to us it's just too bad. She never acts this way toward my 10-year-old sister. I don't go anywhere except to church. If I suggest going to my girl friend's around the corner my little sister always has to go along. Why does my mother treat me like this and what can I do about it? S.M.J.

Your mother just doesn't realize you are getting to be a big girl. I am sure if you will tell her your friends will be well-behaved and not tear up the place as younger children do, that she will let you have them over now and then. It is natural for her to want to know who telephones you, what girls are in your crowd, etc. Every good mother wants to keep an eye on her daughter in just this way. Since you aren't doing anything wrong why not just toss out carelessly, "That was Marge who called, Mom. She wants some help with her math," or whatever it may have been Marge wanted. It is natural for you to be interested in boys at your age, though it may be difficult for Mother to realize you are old enough for that. See if she won't permit you to join a congenial group of boys and girls at your school or in your church or neighborhood and begin dating within the crowd and having the usual teen-age fun. It has to begin some time and now is the best possible when you are probably in your first year of high school. As to little sister tagging along, that is probably as hard on her as on you. You might point that out to Mom and see if she won't be more lenient in that way also.

Sinner vs. Saint

By Elsie Robinson

I HAVE been wondering why one is so much more comfortable in the society of an ordinary garden-variety-sinner than in the society of the professional saint who is working overtime.

Mind you, I don't advocate sin and I'm not now referring to hardened criminals . . . but just the regular, slightly sin-worn chap. Why is it that he's so much better as a pal?

Well, he's cheerful, for one thing. And then, he has a plucky audacity about facing life. Having stuck out his chin a good many times he's well aware what the consequences may be and he can understand your tendency to get into a mess now and then.

★ ★ ★

THEN, TOO, if he has been at all successful as a sinner, he has learned tact and discretion. He respects your confidences and reserves.

He's a good listener—democratic as well—for he has mortgaged his pride and knows how bitter the results of wrong doing can be.

Sin is a very illuminating thing if you look at it properly and sinners usually have adventuring blood in them. That's why they go into forbidden fields to begin with.

★ ★ ★

ABOVE ALL ELSE, a sinner is apt to be friendly. Having sinned, he knows the jagged maw of loneliness and regret and the need for a hand to help him through the dark. Therefore adventurer, generous and friendly but still a sinner—why do we prefer his company to that of the righteous? Could it be because he makes the world a better place even though he has broken some laws?

Cheerful, plucky, tolerant, discreet, a good listener, and he gives his hand the more readily.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

THE following question is not new to this column: "Since I'm a poor dancer, wouldn't it be better to refuse men when they ask me to dance and just dance once in a while with my husband or a member of my family? My husband is not a good dancer either!"

You and your husband should take some dancing lessons. Otherwise, I don't see what else you can do but say frankly that you are a poor dancer. If a would-be partner insists upon dancing with you anyway (which would certainly be unusual), take a few steps and if it does not go well, say "You see?" and then suggest sitting down.

DEAR MRS. POST: What should one do about taking a present when invited to a party that is actually in celebration of a wedding anniversary, but about which no mention was made on the invitation? It probably is not known by everyone.

Answer: Unless people are invited to come to a wedding anniversary, few, if any, would take presents. Even those who know would be more likely to send a present to the anniversary couple rather than take one to the party.

DEAR MRS. POST: (1) For what use, besides buttering breads, can the small butter knives be used? (2) Is it permissible to set the table with the small bread and butter plates and not provide the small knives? In other words, just let people use their regular knives.

Answer: (1) For nothing but butter, jam and cheese. (2) If you have small special knives, you, of course, use them. But if you cannot provide them, then obviously people have to use their big knives.

They'll Do It Every Time

By Jimmy Hatlo

My Day

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK.

I WENT Thursday to the luncheon given to the French ambassador and the officials who arrived with the train of gratitude from France. They all were deeply moved by the enthusiasm shown along their march, particularly the welcome given by the children. Since the children of France received with such gratitude the friendship train which Drew Pearson originated and accompanied to Europe, it was fitting that there should be special thought given to America's children on this returning train.

Mrs. Roosevelt

The speeches at the lunch were brief, for the guests were a little late in reaching the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, but there was great good feeling in the room, and I cannot think of a gesture which could have been made by the French people which would do more to draw together the people of the United States and the people of France.

★ ★ ★

ONE OF THE ORGANIZERS of the idea in France told me a charming story of a little orphan girl who dressed a doll most beautifully and then found there was no money for the doll's wig and as she had pretty ouris, she cut them off to make the doll's hair.

There are representatives of labor, of industry, of the Government and of the veterans of the war accompanying the train, and I feel sure that the results will be to spread and to revitalize the traditional friendships between our two peoples.

THE PAPERS have been full of Mr. Stalin's answers to one of our newspaper correspondent's questions, but I can't see that he said very much more than he has said in the past. I never remember a statement from Marshal Stalin in which he did not say that he wanted peace, that he thought we should do some more talking, and that his doctors would not allow him to leave his own country.

That last statement always interests me, since if you passionately want to achieve an objective, it seems to me that you take risks, and make sacrifices. That I think would be the feeling of any American soldier or statesman. My husband always said that one of the best places he knew for international meetings was the Azores! You do not have to fly over any mountains and the trip could be made easily.

THIS MEETING should not be a meeting just between the United States and the U.S.S.R. It should be a meeting of the representatives of the five great powers and the first thing on the agenda should be the writing of the peace for Europe.

The article published by the German paper which set out the U.S.S.R. suggestions for settlement is amusing because it contains the usual U.S.S.R. idea of compromise. You give up everything on your side and agree with the U.S.S.R. on all points and then the compromise is accepted.

I want very much to see steps taken to bring about a better understanding between the United States and Russia, but I want them to have some semblance of real compromise and I cannot see that a flat decision that we must meet in U.S.S.R. territory or that we must accept U.S.S.R. terms laid down beforehand, holds out much hope for any results. Both of us must go halfway and I am sure the United States will go its full halfway.

Economical Menus for Tomorrow

By Meta Given

SHOULD leaves from carrots, beets, radishes and turnips be removed when one buys them? While these vegetables grow in the ground, the leaves use some materials from the air and others that come up through the roots to manufacture sugar, starch, and protein which are stored day after day in the roots as long as they grow in the soil. As soon as these root vegetables are out of the ground, this leaf function is reversed.

The leaves immediately begin to draw on the food stored in the roots with the result that the root is rapidly depletted of nutritive value. Therefore the grocer who removes the leaves from such vegetables is doing the best thing for the vegetables. If your grocer does not remove the leaves, make a habit of cutting them off immediately, then store them in the hydrator of your refrigerator, or out on the open shelves of the refrigerator if it is the kind that keeps the food moist.

Letting vegetables stand in the open air at room temperature is sure to wilt them rapidly and while they can be soaked in cold water to restore some crispness, they never are as attractive as they were before wilting, and worse still, their vitamin value is considerably reduced. The crisp leaves of beets, radishes and turnips may be cooked for excellent greens and if there are not enough of them to make a meal, combine them with some spinach and you'll have an extra delicious combination.

Barbecued Spareribs.

Trim off any excess fat from 2 to 3 pounds spareribs. Place in large shallow baking pan. For easier handling, measure one and one-half teaspoons salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one-fourth teaspoon paprika, one-fourth teaspoon chili powder and one-fourth teaspoon poultry seasoning and mix together. Sprinkle generously over ribs on both sides. Slice one small onion over top and pour one 8-oz. can tomato sauce over all. Add one can (one cup) water and sprinkle one teaspoon sugar over sauce. Bake at 350 degrees F. for about three hours, until very tender, baste often and turn ribs once during cooking. Add more water if necessary, but sauce should be thick enough to cling to meat when done. Serves 4.

Low Cost Menus.

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

IN the final analysis, the success of any deceptive play depends on the gullibility of the opponents. Perhaps East should have seen through declarer's camouflage in today's deal—but he didn't.

South, dealer.

	♠Q ♥532 ♦A653 ♣J10873
	♠A762 ♥KQJ104 ♦74 ♣KQ

South	West	North	East
1♥	Pass	2♥	Pass
4♥	Pass	Pass	Pass

West, having no particularly attractive lead, opened a trump. East considered putting up the ace and leading a second round, but he felt that West might get in before he did, and if West led a second trump, East could take out all of dummy's cards in the suit. So East ducked and declarer won with the heart king.

South did not like his own prospects! It was quite apparent that the defenders were going to prevent any spade ruffing in dummy. Conversely, if South tried to draw the trumps and establish dummy's club suit, the defenders would certainly knock out the diamond entry to dummy, and South would be left high and dry.

After much thought, South concluded that his only chance was to distort the facts for the opponents. So, at the second trick, he led a low spade.

This unusual maneuver had a remarkable outcome! West put up the spade king and led his remaining trump, convinced that declarer was planning to ruff spades. This time East won with the ace, and, placing the spade ace in West's hand, returned his last trump. South now led the club king, and East jumped on the trick to return a spade. He was amazed and dismayed when South produced the ace, cashed the club queen, and then went to dummy with a diamond to run the club suit!

Report Card Cannot Tell Everything

By Angelo Patri

A REPORT card that analyzes—or attempts to do so—the body, mind and soul of a child is a waste of time and money. Nobody can do that with any degree of accuracy. I am referring to the report cards that are fashionable in some places, folders with lists of characteristics which must be checked by the teacher every month, sometimes oftener.

To begin with: A child may go along for months on end without indicating the slightest change in an attitude, accomplishment or physical growth. He is changing—have no doubt about that—but the change is not visible to the naked eye, nor to the trained, keen eye of the teacher.

Or the child may change overnight. That has happened, too.

★ ★ ★

WHEN A TEACHER has to fill out a long list of qualities and accomplishments every month and there is no visible change in the child, she must—in the nature of things—set down marks, often with scant relation to the matter because there is no information available to make the marks accurate.

Bobby's report card had a red mark opposite social consciousness. "What does that mean?" his mother asked.

"I guess it was the time that Fishface pinched me in line going to assembly. He was three in back of me, and he stretched around and pinched me hard. I jumped and hollered and I was so mad I said, 'If I knew who did that, I'd punch his snoot,' and Teacher took me out of line, but she didn't try to find out who did it. So I got that bad mark, I guess."

YOU CAN'T blame the teacher. It's the report card that is to blame. It attempts too much and so loses the essential. There was a call for a mark on social consciousness, so the teacher thought this was a good time to use it. The mark bore scant relation to the situation. The boy who hollered in fright and anger was not the one who was socially unconscious, was he? Wasn't it the one who pinched him?

Look over these critical analytical cards and see how the marks go down the column, across the page with no change. "B's a safe mark." You can't blame the teacher. She must make the marks. Why not use a simple card that says "good, bad, indifferent," with an occasional note, and let it go at that.
